Japanese Divisions Routed as Aerial Forces Shattered

Chinese Achieve One of Biggest Victories Won Against Invaders

CHUNGKING, June 1 (Tuesday) (AP).—One of the biggest victories for Chinese armies in the whole Sino-Japanese war—the routing of five enemy divisions—and the most shattering joint air victory over the invaders ever achieved over China were reported in a special High Command communique today.

The five Japanese divisions, perhaps 75,000 troops, were "completely routed" with heavy losses southwest of Ichang on the Yangtze, and thirty-one enemy planes were accounted for —twenty-three shot down and eight more probably destroyed —in an Allied raid on Ichang, Monday, headquarters said.

Allied bombers and fighters joined in the assault on Ichang.

Chinese forces are besieging Changyang, twelve miles south of Ichang, the special announcement said, and surrounding enemy remnants.

"The route of retreat of the enemy's 3rd and 13th divisions has been cut," the communique declared. "Our forces started an all-front counter-attack May 30. By noon on May 31 the enemy's five divisions had been completely routed as a result of the vigorous Chinese encircling assaults."

ENEMY FORCES COLLAPSE

The special bulletin also said that enemy forces at several points in North Hunan had "collapsed" and were retreating.

The bombers got twenty of the twenty-three planes destroyed and accounted for five of the eight "probables" at Ichang.

"A large number" of heavy bombers escorted by Chinese pursuit planes "unloaded over ten tons of bombs on the enemy airfield at Ichang destroying many planes on the ground," the special communique said.

Scores of enemy fighters rose to battle, and "in the ensuing fifteen minutes engagement three enemy planes were shot down. Three others were probably shot down (by Chinese fighters).

"Twenty other enemy planes were shot down by the Allied bombers and five more were probably shot down. Our planes all returned to their bases safely.

"Another group of our medium-size bombers under protection of fighters bombed enemy supplies and shipping concentrated near Ichang. Several tons of bombs were dropped. Our planes all returned safely."

Police Doubt Story Told Of Shooting

Sectionman Claims Shot From Ambush

PORT WILLIAM, May 31 (CP).—Police and railway investigators returned to Port William tonight to report failure in their search for a gun at the scene of the reported train sabotage near Pawtek, Ont., Sunday.

Andrew Kosiluk, fifty-five-year-old sectionman, was wounded and he claimed he had been fired upon from ambush as he attempted to replace rail spikes which had been removed from the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, nineteen miles west of here.

Inspector William G. Ingram, of the Ontario Provincial Police, said today: "There certainly was sabotage. There's no doubt of that."

He challenged Kosiluk's story of the shooting, declaring it was impossible for him to be shot in the manner he described.

Inspector Ingram said tonight a thorough search of the woods and right-of-way at the scene of the track tampering had failed to disclose a gun.

Members of the Ontario Provincial Police, Royal Canadian Mounted Police and C.P.R. investigators participated in the search.

Kosiluk, who was brought to hospital here suffering from a bullet wound in the left shoulder, was under police guard tonight.

SPIKES TAKEN OUT OF TRACK

In his story to police he said removing spikes had been removed from about fifty feet of track. He told police he was fired at from ambush. One bullet pierced his left shoulder while another tore a hole in his hat.

Kosiluk's story to police and newspapermen claimed that three men were involved in the alleged shooting.

Eradicate Snipers on Aleutians

Getting Ready For New Move

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP).—The battle of the Aleutians settled down today to a campaign to eradicate scattered nests of enemy snipers on Attu pending disclosure of where the next offensive moves will be made.

Two major possibilities exist in the North Pacific, a move against Kiska or a campaign to the west aimed at the Kurile Islands chain reaching north from Japan.

In event the next move should point to the west, it appeared highly probable that Attu, where the Japanese have been vanquished after twenty days of fighting, would play a large part.

As a weather station, if nothing else, it would provide advance information on conditions expectable by either air or surface units heading toward the west.

Also Attu's airfield, which the Japanese started, presumably can be readily completed and could be enlarged to accommodate even the largest bombing planes.

If that were done, with the Japanese base at Paramushiro only 630 nautical miles away, it would be possible for bombers to roar out from the Aleutians to hit that enemy sea base just south of Russia's Kamchatka Peninsula.

Attu, too, controls the fate of the big Japanese garrison on Kiska. Either an attack in force can be launched with the use of the newly-conquered island, or forces there can take the slower but no less sure method of starving out the enemy on Kiska. Forces on Attu could prevent shipment of foodstuffs and supplies to the enemy base.

Davies Is at Fairbanks

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 31 (AP).—Joseph E. Davies arrived here today from Moscow, where he delivered a secret message to Premier Joseph Stalin from President Roosevelt.

Although the Fairbanks dispatch did not say it was presumed Davies arrived in Alaska by plane—the mode of travel which he used on his journey to Moscow via the Middle East.

The President's special envoy was last mentioned in cables from Moscow last Thursday, when he said he was leaving for the United States almost immediately with Premier Stalin's reply to the President.

Honorary Degree for Premier King Today

NEW YORK, May 31 (CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at Columbia University's commencement exercises tomorrow, the university announced tonight. Mr. King arrived here today from Ottawa.

Others to receive honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws included Sir William Beveridge, master of University College, Oxford, and author of Britain's postwar security plan.

Allied Bombers Smash Nazi Centres in Occupied Zones

Eighteen Children Die as Germans Blast English Church

LONDON, May 31 (CP).—The R.A.F. and R.C.A.F., concluding their most destructive month's operations of the war, swept the Low Countries and France today with fighters and bombers. Airports, communications, docks and factories were the targets at Zeebrugge, Nieuport and Brugge in Belgium, Vlissingen in Holland and Caen and Cherbourg in France.

R.C.A.F. Spitfires shot down two Focke-Wulf 190's in a running battle with thirty enemy planes over Nieuport. The Spitfires were carrying on a diversionary sweep while R.A.F. Ventura bombers smashed at Zeebrugge.

An R.C.A.F. communique said one Canadian Spitfire was missing.

Canadian Spitfires also provided part of the fighter escort for United States medium bombers which attacked enemy targets at Flushing in Holland.

GREAT EXPLOSIONS AMONG STRONG POINTS

Great explosions were seen today along the French coast, indicating Allied planes were attacking the German coastal defences. Dense smoke was seen rising near Boulogne and between Cape Gris Nez and Calais.

This is the area where the Germans have been reinforcing strong points.

In the last week it is estimated the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. dropped more than 7,000 tons of bombs on Germany, concentrating their blockbusters on the industrial cities of Dortmund, Duesseldorf, Jena, Essen and Wuppertal.

In eight major attacks alone, 10,500 tons were dropped during May, the Air Ministry said tonight. This total did not include the weight of explosives dropped in many other raids, including the breaching of the Mohne and Eder dams.

Wuppertal, a Ruhr Valley city of 411,000 situated between Essen and Duesseldorf, was the latest to feel the might of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. which unloaded 1,000 tons of bombs on this target Saturday night in one of the heaviest raids on record.

SMOKE RISES THREE MILES

Returning pilots reported they left fires from which columns of smoke billowed up nearly three miles into the sky.

Sgt. Bernard Sorge, of Pincher Creek, Alta., captain and pilot of the plane Pincher Creek II, told how "a bunch of factories just seemed to go to pieces before the eyes as he looked down on the target."

Planes Keep Pounding at The Italians

Hundred Bombers Hit At Naples Harbor

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 31 (AP).—Allied bombers from North Africa and the Middle East converged on Southern Italy in daylight yesterday to smash Naples and Foggia without the loss of a single plane.

More than 100 heavy bombers cascaded bombs on Naple harbor, destroying shipping, railroads and suburban airfields and shooting down ten of possibly sixty enemy fighters that attacked them in the air.

A Cairo communique reported that Foggia airdrome on the other side of the Italian peninsula was assaulted by more than fifty big bombers of the Allied Middle East Command, which blasted numerous Axis planes on the ground, set a gasoline dump ablaze and scored direct hits on barracks.

NO ALLIED PLANE LOST ON MISSIONS

No Allied plane was lost on either of these huge missions.

The North African Air Force also maintained its destructive siege of Sardinia and Pantellaria Islands. Over Sardinia one fighter was lost, the lone Allied casualty of the day, but its pilot was known to be safe. The Axis lost fourteen planes in aerial combat.

By even conservative estimate the combined Allied operations probably employed more than 300 planes. The announced loss of one aircraft meant that these "softening-up" attacks on Italy were being mounted at the amazingly low cost of one-third of one per cent.

Noted Industrialist To Reside on Coast

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP).—The Ottawa Journal said in a news page story today that W. Garfield Weston, Canadian-born member of the British House of Commons, has purchased the "Kew" residence in West Vancouver, B.C., built by A. J. T. Taylor.

The Journal added: "Mr. Weston will eventually make his Canadian residence in Vancouver and establish his business headquarters there."

Mr. Weston recently purchased the E. B. Eddy Company, Hull, Que., and now is negotiating for the J. R. Booth, Ltd., mills here. He also has purchased the National Biscuit Company of Vancouver. The story said he will make important extensions in that business.

June Liquor Rations Are Announced

Slight Increases In Malt Liquors

Showing an increase in the monthly quota of malt liquor and a decrease in the allotment of spirits, June liquor rations were announced yesterday by W. F. Kennedy, board chairman, as follows:

One reputed pint (thirteen ounces) of spirits or two dozen pints of malt liquor or equivalent of two bottles imperial wine or one gallon Canadian wine.

In a prepared statement to the press, Mr. Kennedy stated: "Owing to the small quantity of beer available for May distribution, the board found it necessary to fix the quantity to be sold one reputed quart of spirits or one dozen pint bottles of beer or two bottles of wine, it naturally caused a run on the sale of spirits resulting in a small surplus for the month of beer and wine."

The statement continued: "As the board is working on a basic year ending October 31, 1941, it will be necessary from time to time to adjust the allotment in accordance with the available stocks. While desirable that pints of spirits be delivered, as large quantities of this

French Fleet Ready to Side With Allies

CAIRO, May 31 (AP).—The French fleet at Alexandria has volunteered to fight for the Allies as a result of successful negotiations by Gen. Henri Giraud, it was announced tonight.

The British Government was kept fully informed throughout the negotiations.

The decision spikes rumors which persisted here for more than a year that boarding parties composed of crews of other Allied fleets planned to take over the French fleet in a surprise coup.

A barely sufficient number of the original crew now is aboard the battleship Lorraine. Repatriation to France, arranged under a gentlemen's agreement of June 25, 1940, cut down the crews by more than 50 per cent. Subsequent desertions to the Fighting French further depleted the manpower of the immobilized squadron.

CUT LIQUOR RATIONS

TORONTO, May 31 (CP).—The monthly liquor ration in Ontario was reduced by twenty-seven ounces for June, Liquor Board Chairman A. St. Clair Gordon announced today. Effective June 1 the maximum monthly quantity will be fifty-three ounces, instead of the eighty ounces set in May. An increase in the sale of liquor permits and a desire for more equalized distribution of the spirits, led to the decision.

Oil Plants Wrecked by R.A.F. Bombers

LONDON, June 1 (Tuesday) (CP).—A Duisburg plant capable of making 100,000 tons of sorely needed synthetic oil annually was wrecked in the R.A.F. raid May 12, the Air Ministry announced today.

A growing oil shortage was reported in Germany where about a fourth of the production is synthetic, the announcement said.

The knocked out plant was the Ruhr Chemical A.G. and its associated company, Ruhr Benzin A.G., located at Sterkrade, about six miles from Duisburg.

Experts who examined reconnaissance photographs said the plant would be out of production for a long time. The main storage building for raw material, a group of water gas generators, three gasholders, the cooling tower of the power plant, offices and workshops were wrecked, the pictures showed.

Thousands of Miners in U.S. Idle as Truce Ends

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1943, by Beatham Co.)

LONDON, May 31.—Big Allied air assaults have been kept up all around the fortress of Europe from Sicily and Crete in the South to the Ruhr Valley and Northern France.

The latest R.A.F. Air Force attack on the Wuppertal region, smashed 1,500 tons of bombs down on the great Nazi chemical plants and other war industries, causing immense fires and swamping the defences in the violence of explosions. The Wuppertal area is packed with small factories, which suffered heavily.

Royal Air Force crews, among whom were many Canadians saw smoke from fires rising to a height of three miles or more. Canadians also participated with the United States Air Force on smaller scale raids on the Nazi naval base at St. Nazaire and on Rennes, which were protected by great numbers of the Luftwaffe's fighters as well as intense flak.

Attacks from North Africa on Italy, says The Times Algiers correspondent, are made by 100 United States Fortresses on less. They do much damage to ports like Leghorn and the airfields of Sicily. British Wellingtons continue to hammer Sardinia.

Editorially, The Times says it is no surprise there should now be loud laments and complaints from Rome and Berlin about the iniquity and inhumanity of bombing. Nor is it surprising that the Madrid Government has made itself the Axis mouthpiece. In modern air war damage to historical buildings and deaths of civilians are inevitable.

But the Nazis did not regard this when they bombed Warsaw and undefended Rotterdam. On the contrary, systematic destruction of the undefended open city of Belgrade was openly acclaimed by the Nazis, and so ecstatically was the bombing of Britain received by the Axis that Mussolini asked Hitler's permission to take part in the slaughter of crowded communities which the dictators thought would lead to conquest of London.

While German propaganda is bemoaning the air bombardments, at the same time it is threatening London with such reprisals that the raids of 1940 will seem "like a lazy breeze."

Marshal Stalin in Reuters Moscow correspondent says The Times diplomatic correspondent, shows he looks forward to "future organization of a companionship of nations." By dissolving the Comintern he recognized the equality of nations, and it is significant that the Communist party newspaper, Pravda emphasizes that winning the peace is just as important as winning the war. In preventing German imperialism from again devastating Europe the Soviet Union, Britain and the United States must take a noble and honorable part.

The French squadron at Alexandria has laid there for three years demilitarized and out of the war. It consists of one old battleship, four cruisers, eight destroyers and a submarine. Vichy propaganda that French sailors in charge were deprived of food and pay to compel them to give up the warships is unfounded.

U.S. Government Faces Greatest Crisis in Coal Workers' Dispute

WASHINGTON, June 1 (Tuesday) (AP).—Thousands of coal miners were idle in the United States today in a widespread strike, bringing Government operation of the mines to an unprecedented crisis.

Midnight Monday brought expiration of a truce under which the walkouts began as John L. Lewis and the operators failed to agree on a new wage contract.

Even before the deadline, thousands of miners laid down their tools in Pennsylvania and Kentucky, and battalions of the country's coal-mining army in West Virginia, Ohio and other states were ready to stay away from work today.

Lewis and the operators met again yesterday but gave no report of progress in their negotiations for settlement of the miners' demands for $2 a day wage increases, portal to portal pay and other concessions.

Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, who as Fuels Administrator has operated the mines for a month in behalf of the Government, appealed to the negotiators yesterday afternoon to reach an agreement speedily.

The War Labor Board turned down the miners' $2 a day demand but left the way open for an agreement on portal-to-portal and other matters which might net the miners as much as $1 a day more than their present $7 a-day basic wage.

The miners number about 500,000.

"NO CONTRACT NO WORK" SIGNS

No contract, no work signs were posted throughout Pennsylvania as hard coal leaders and union officials expressed belief most of the 80,000-odd anthracite miners would stay home. John D. Kline, president of District 7, UMW, said:

The rank and file control understood and supported the action. "Not a single anthracite mine has been operated since midnight," he declared. "There were similar instructions from Pennsylvania's soft coal fields."

All soft coal mines in Northeastern Kentucky were closed after 12,000 miners failed to report in the Big Sandy area. Leaders of West Virginia's 100,000 miners likewise indicated they expected to do [illegible]

[illegible] from Illinois, Indiana and Colorado.

Thrust and Parry on East Front

Germans Claim Wedge Driven

LONDON, June 1 (Tuesday) (CP).—The Germans claimed to have driven a wedge into Russian lines north of Smolensk Monday and both sides reported thrusts and parries of scouting raids.

The Nazi plunge against Soviet lines, made east of Velizh, was intended to straighten the battleline on a fairly large front, said a German broadcast recorded by The Associated Press.

The Russians were prepared despite fierce resistance and Red Army counter-attacks were repulsed with the Germans holding the line they were ordered to take, the broadcast claimed. Velizh lies between Velikie Luki, a Soviet stronghold, and German-held Smolensk.

A special Moscow broadcast reported thirty-one German planes were shot down Sunday when the Nazis tried to rain arms near Leningrad against a loss of only three Soviet aircraft. An announcement also recorded by the Soviet monitor said the Germans had lost 2,069 planes on the whole front between May 2 and May 29 and the Leningrad action thus brought the total to at least 2,100 for May.

The Russian Monday midnight communique recorded by the Soviet radio monitor, said Red Army troops "routed about two companies of enemy infantry" on the western front and smashed gun emplacements, but did not indicate if the action occurred in the Velizh area.

NO IMPORTANT CHANGES MADE

There were no important changes anywhere, said the midnight communique.

Red Army troops battled a German counter-attack near Kozlov, front south of Leningrad, with Soviet aviation smashing down "in a single sector" twenty-six enemy tanks, Soviet dispatches said.

Any direct effect on the Leningrad area of a large-scale German attack with dive bombers, the time is ripe for such a venture. It was in June two years ago that the Germans marched against Russia.

The Soviet midnight communique said simply that fighting continued Monday in the Kuban and north of Novorossisk. A German broadcast said the Russians in five days of unsuccessful attacks had lost sixty-three tanks, 173 aircraft and several rifle divisions.

Hon. E. C. Manning Is Sworn As New Premier of Alberta

EDMONTON, May 31 (CP).—Hon. E. C. Manning, thirty-four year-old confidant and friend of the late Premier Aberhart and Provincial Secretary and Minister of Trade and Industry in his Cabinet, today was sworn in as Premier of Alberta, becoming the youngest Provincial Government leader in the Dominion.

Mr. Manning was the unanimous choice of a Social Credit caucus called to choose a successor to the late Premier who brought Social Credit to Alberta with election of his Government in 1935 and who died at Vancouver May 23.

Choice of the caucus announced by Speaker Peter Dawson and C. E. Gerhart (S.C., Coronation), who acted as scrutineers, took only a few minutes of secret balloting. Lieut.-Governor J. C. Bowen was notified and called upon Mr. Manning to form a government. The new Premier was sworn in before the whole caucus in the office of the Lieutenant-Governor.

TO CARRY ON ABERHART'S WORK

Mr. Manning's first act as Premier was issuance of a statement to the people of the Province pledging himself to carry on the work started by Premier Aberhart for the people's "economic security and freedom." He said "the courageous battle which was waged to this end by the late Premier Aberhart will be carried on with unrelenting vigor."

Immediate task facing the young slender Premier, son of a Saskatchewan farm family, was organization of a new Government. He expected to be able to announce selection of a Cabinet within a few days.

The death of Premier Aberhart automatically canceled the portfolios of the Aberhart Cabinet and Mr. Manning has not been resworn.

Airmen Give Lae Heaviest Lashing Yet

Thirty-Six Tons of Bombs on Enemy Base

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 1 (Tuesday) (CP).—Thirty-six tons of bombs were dropped on the Japanese base at Lae, New Guinea, yesterday, causing much damage, the High Command reported.

Lae is on Huon Gulf, 150 miles north of the Allied base at Buna.

Pacific Ocean Islands 500 miles north of Darwin, a Japanese bomber was destroyed and a fighter damaged in a strafing attack on Langgiar.

Six Zeros attempted interception and one was shot down in flames.

The raid on Lae was the heaviest of the war on that base. Last Friday Allied bombers dropped twenty-eight tons of explosives and incendiaries upon Lae.

INTENSITY OF RAIDS INCREASING

Raids on the Northeast New Guinea coast have been increasing in intensity during the last ten days, with repeated heavy attacks on airdromes in the vicinity of Wewak, supply base for Lae.

The communique described the raid this way:

Our heavy bombers attacked in force, dropping thirty-six tons of high explosives from medium altitude on the runways, the town area and the waterfront.

Damage is believed to have been extensive. Anti-aircraft fire was encountered. All planes returned."

The raid was made in the face of adverse weather conditions.

Washington Prices Official Quits Post

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP).—J. Kenneth Galbraith, deputy administrator in charge of prices, resigned tonight.

Galbraith, born near St. Thomas, Ont., and a former Harvard professor, who took office with Leon Henderson at the outset of O.P.A. and held over under Administrator Prentice M. Brown, has been at odds with Lou R. Maxon, another deputy administrator who was brought in by Brown.

Council Moves to Prevent Mills From Burning Sawdust and Wood

AN emphatic request that wood fuel control officials of the Department of Munitions and Supply take immediate steps to prevent Vancouver Island sawmills from burning wood and sawdust that could be used for urgent domestic purposes will be made by the City Council, it was decided unanimously yesterday afternoon on motion of Alderman F. A. Willis.

Alderman T. W. Hawkins reported that a sawmill at Great Central Lake was throwing many cords of wood and sawdust into an incinerator. He felt the Department of Munitions and Supply should be held responsible for the delivery of sufficient quantities of stove wood to Victoria, and should see that it was made an offence to wantonly burn up fuel when many citizens are in need.

Alderman W. Lloyd Morgan stated that another sawmill in Cowichan district was burning up fifty cords of millwood per day. He recalled that Island sawmills were in urgent need of railway cars for wood on May 24, yet twenty-one were lying empty at Victoria yards on the same day.

An offer of Frank W. Willett, wood production officer, to supply thirty-five alternate service workers to cut bush wood in Goldstream district was referred to the water board, in charge of Alderman John A. Worthington.

An application of the Canadian Red Cross Society to operate a mobile canteen at Beacon Hill Park was handed to the parks and health committees. The committee was also asked to deal with a request that Macdonald Park be used by the V.M.D. and R.C.A.F. on June 2 and 9 for softball games in aid of Queen Alexandra Solarium.

OF SHIP ACCIDENT

A letter from the Victoria Machinery Depot Co., Ltd., alleging that operation of the Johnson Street Bridge caused an accident to a freighter on April 15 was handed to the public works committee, engineer and solicitor. The lands committee was asked to examine a request from United Grain Growers' Terminal, Ltd., that an air compressor be installed at the Ogden Point grain elevator. Fire wardens and the war emergency committee were requested to discuss the possibility of securing a blanket radio licence for short wave apparatus used by the police and fire departments.

Alderman Edward Williams moved that civic employees be paid a full cost-of-living bonus. An amendment of Alderman Hawkins that the matter be tabled until the return of Mayor Andrew McGavin from Ottawa was carried. On motion of Alderman Williams it was agreed to set up a board to draft a by-law to establish salary schedules and definite annual wage increases for civic employees. It will have three members, one of whom is to be appointed by the Mayor.

Tenders for electrical supplies were opened and handed to the street lighting committee. A by-law to permit barber shops to close at noon on Wednesdays was introduced and read. The parks committee was asked to report on a plan to make a playground on property bounded by Cook and Higgins Streets and Hillside Avenue. A lengthy report of the water board and health committee on the water supply system was placed on file and a copy ordered for John Day, sanitary engineer. A petition from ninety-five persons urging the council to permit swimming in Beaver Lake as usual was turned over to the water board. Permission was granted United Engineering Works to install a 250-gallon gasoline tank and pump at 575 Pembroke Street.

PROPERTY SALES ARE PASSED BY COUNCIL

Alderman Hawkins moved the following lands committee property sales, which were ratified by the council: A house at 1624 Hillside Avenue, $2,525, and another at 2121 Sayward Street, $550; and lots, east side of Boyd Street, near Dallas Road, $250; west side of Belmont Avenue, near Kings Road, $65; south side of ViVsta Heights, near Blackwood Street, $250; south side of Westall Avenue, near Gosworth Road, $50; east side of Scott Street, near Bay Street, $75, and north side of Myrtle Avenue, near Doncaster Drive, $100.

On motion of Alderman Morgan it was agreed to give the ViVictoria Gliding Club a 1922 Packard automobile free so that members may use the engine to construct a glider winch. The old car has been stored for several years at the Garbally Road yard.

At the request of the police commission it was agreed to ask Premier John Hart for statistics on venereal diseases which commissioners have so far been unable to obtain.

"If no answer is received, we should write to the Federal Government," Alderman Percy E. George urged. "Figures that injured our city's good name were released by the army command and published in Vancouver newspapers. I am sorry the Provincial health officer saw fit to withhold statistics from the police commission," he added.

"I move the chief of police be ordered to close all 'houses' and keep them closed," Alderman John A. Worthington remarked.

"They are all closed," stated Alderman William H. Davies, who is also a police commissioner.

REGRETS CO-OPERATION LACKING IN MATTER

"It is regrettable that the Provincial Department of Health has not co-operated with the police commission," Alderman George declared.

"The good name of eight aldermen, in addition to three police commissioners, is involved," Alderman Burges J. Gadsden said. "I suggested a year ago that an inquiry be made into police administration. I believe our chief and police force are the equal of any in Canada, but there has not been sufficient energy shown in carrying out what has been carried out. This is a serious matter. The Criminal Code of Canada ha not been carried out, or these things would not have happened."

On motion of Alderman Gadsden copies of letters from Dr. G. F. Amyot, Provincial health officer, to Hon. G. S. Pearson, Provincial Secretary, and from Mr. Pearson to Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., Attorney-General, were tabled until the return of Mayor McGavin. The communications made specific statements concerning venereal diseases.

"The last confidential report received by the police commission showed the venereal disease rate in British Columbia, and specifically the Victoria area, was the lowest in Canada," Alderman Davies remarked in closing the debate.

British War Strategists at Allied Parley

From Europe

correspondent says General Giraud wants the election of a provisional legislature after France is liberated, but General De Gaulle thinks such a body would not be representative of present-day France, and prefers immediate convocation of a national assembly to provide a new constitution.

General De Gaulle feels that the underground resistance movement now growing so important in France should have a wider acknowledgement than General Giraud proposes.

Another point of difference, says The Times, is the relation between civil and military authorities in France after liberation. Unless the extent of France's revolt against Vichy and against the Germans, as well as the French people's longing for drastic social changes, is understood in Britain, concludes The Times, the consequences for Europe may be little short of fatal.

The recent Italian claims that they bombed the Sudan and Italian East Africa have been investigated and show that Italian aircraft were not within 1,500 miles of these targets.

Doubt Story

Inspector Ingram, however, challenged Kosliuk's story of the shooting, declaring that it was impossible for him to be shot in the manner he described.

"Why I shoot myself," he answered in broken English. "I have job there twenty-one years. I have good job and wife and little girl. Why I shoot myself?" he repeated.

The doctor attending Kosliuk said his wounds were not serious.

Between fifty and sixty passengers were on the Montreal-Vancouver train. Railways officials said the passenger list was unusually light with three of the ten coaches unoccupied.

At the hospital today Kosliuk told newspapermen that he was on a routine inspection of the tracks when he discovered the rail had been tampered with.

He said he saw a man standing between the double tracks on a sharp curve more than a quarter of a mile away. The man disappeared the moment he saw Kosliuk.

As he approached closer to the curve, the sectionman said he noticed two men standing in the ditch. Both disappeared into the bush.

"I saw a spike lying between the rails," he said. "Looking close, I saw a number of spikes had been taken out of the outside rail."

GUN FIRED THREE TIMES

He started to repair the track and had replaced one spike when he heard a gun fired three times.

"It felt like a needle burning in my left shoulder. The shot turned me around . . . I heard more bangs, maybe six or seven altogether. Then I jump down the bank, so these men not see me."

Kosliuk stumbled down the railway embankment and made his way to the home of another sectionman.

A few minutes later he flagged a pusher engine and signal torpedoes were set to warn the oncoming passenger train.

Kosliuk, with blood streaming from his shoulder wounds, was given first aid and taken aboard the train for Fort William.

that the union would have no announcement to make, meaning that it was up to the individual miners whether they reported for work today.

Lewis left a Washington hotel, remarking that he was going home and would be at his office in the morning. Asked whether he had talked with Interior Department officials, the U.M.W. chief replied: "No comment."

However, Lewis and the operators were scheduled to resume negotiations at 10:30 a.m. today.

merchandise is now in reputed quart size and some bottled in imperial quarts, it will be necessary when a reputed quart is delivered to endorse the permit twice, and in the case of an imperial quart the permit will be endorsed three times. The public should understand that when purchasing these sizes they forfeit the right to purchase next month, or in the case of imperial quarts, for a three months' period."

BIG INCREASE IN LIQUOR PERMITS

Discussing the permits, Mr. Kennedy said: "For the fiscal year ending March 31, 1942, 21,014 liquor permits were issued, and while the board expected there would be a large increase in the number issued under our present system, it was not anticipated the increase would be as large as is shown from the figures available. Well over 400,000 permits have been issued since January 1."

Mr. Kennedy stated that the usual stamp endorsement will be continued and, in addition a punch will be used in order to keep a closer check on the situation.

The board chairman announced that beer parlors situated in a city where there is a Government liquor store will be advised that they must discontinue selling bottled beer for consumption off the premises. Sale of such stocks on the premises will enable the hotels to remain open longer than at present and make it possible for them to cater to more patrons, Mr. Kennedy said.

In areas not served by Government liquor stores, beer parlors will be allowed to continue under the present regulations in so far as they affect the sale of bottled beer for consumption off the premises, the board chairman announced.

Blast Nazi Centres

The Germans struck back in reprisal yesterday by making their strongest daylight raids on Britain in some time, attacking coastal districts in a series of quick thrusts which cost them at least half a dozen planes.

The brunt of the German attacks was borne by a town on the southwest coast, identified by the Berlin radio as the resort centre of Torquay, which was bombed by fifteen Focke-Wulf fighter-bombers. This raid caused a considerable number of fatalities, including eighteen children whose bodies later were dug from the ruins of a church.

FIFTEEN OTHER CHILDREN MISSING

Fifteen other children and three Sunday school teachers were reported missing last night. Additional casualties resulted when a hotel was hit and when the streets were machine-gunned by the raiders.

A dozen Nazi fight-bombers also swept in over the East Anglian coast at dusk, dropping bombs which caused some damage and casualties.

R.A.F. bombers were active over the continent yesterday, attacking a steelworks at Mondeville, near Caen, in Northern France. In supporting sweeps British fighters were reported to have shot down four enemy planes. One R.A.F. fighter failed to return.

An enemy coastal vessel was shot up and set afire by British bombers earlier yesterday off the Netherlands coast.

The Saturday night assault on Wuppertal cost the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. thirty-three planes, an Air Ministry communique said. It was the first attack of the war on the city, which is the site of the great I. G. Farbenindustrie chemical works and the C. J. Jaeger ball and roller bearing factories.

The raid followed close on the heels of simultaneous daylight attacks on Rennes, St. Nazaire and La Pallice in France by the greatest force of American medium and heavy bombers ever sent out from bases in Britain.

Thirteen of the American bombers were reported lost in the three-way assault.

Mr. Manning was the first Cabinet Minister sworn into the Aberhart Cabinet following his election in 1935. At twenty-six he became the youngest Cabinet Minister in the British Empire.

He was re-elected in 1940, heading an Edmonton poll.

Married and with two children, he now makes his home in Edmonton.

ISSUES STATEMENT OF POLICY

The caucus tonight issued a statement of policy, reaffirming the party's resolve to "continue with renewed vigor the struggle to gain for the people more effective control of their credit resources and freedom from exploitation by vested interests, monopolies and combines."

The statement also resolved to continue to strive for "the establishment of a functioning democracy, both political and economic," which would provide:

1. Absolute sovereignty of the people in their respective spheres of constitutional authority.

2. Use of the vast resources of the nation for a maximum war effort and to guarantee the greatest possible individual security and freedom after the war.

3. The full and proper recognition of the courage and sacrifice of the men and women of the fighting forces and their dependents.

4. Freedom from all state bureaucracy, regimentation, harsh taxation, burdensome debt and other unnecessary restriction which curtail the democratic rights and the freedom of the individual.

As chock full as a plum pudding with nuts and raisins is the air over the port of Monserrato, in Sardinia, with aerial bombs, as a Flying Fortress unloads its myriad missiles of destruction. This picture is unusual—it is the first time such a large number of missiles have been caught by the camera while leaving a bombing plane.

Hundred Thousand Planes Completed

Director of American War Mobilization Tells of Great War Production

SPARTANBURG, S.C., May 31 (AP).—Declaring that the United States and her Allies are girding for many attacks on many fronts, James F. Byrnes, the new director of American war mobilization, said tonight:

"The 100,000th plane to come off production lines since the United States began its war production programme was completed today.

"Merchant ships are being built four times as fast as they are being sunk. The United States Navy is doubling its size this year.

"In the first five months of 1943 100 fighting ships were finished—one every thirty-six hours.

He said that the United States has made enough bombs to load planes for 342 raids the size of that which hit Dorfmund last week. Byrnes was delivering an address in his home town.

But while he was issuing this "bad news" for the enemy, he cautioned that "we are just entering the critical period of the war."

TO ATTACK ON MANY FRONTS

"We now are girding ourselves not for a single attack on a single front, but for many attacks on many fronts both in the European theatre of war and in the Pacific," he said.

He told of the sinking of four submarines that attacked a convoy and the destruction of a Japanese battleship at eight-mile range on a stormy night—by means of radar.

The wholesale destruction of submarines presumably was the victory announced in London May 12. The Admiralty said four and perhaps ten U-boats were sunk after they attacked a convoy. The sinking of the battleship had been announced last November by the United States Navy, but it did not disclose at that time how radar mastered the eight-mile range.

As for radar, the British invention which uses boomeranging radio beams to detect distant enemy planes and ships even in fog or at night, Byrnes said:

"On the night of November 14 off Guadalcanal, there lay a Japanese battleship. It was a stormy night. Eight miles away was a ship of our fleet. With the use of the radar our ship with its second salvo sank the Japanese battleship in the blackness of night, eight miles away."

Flying Fortress Gets Eleven Nazi Planes in Fight

LONDON, May 31 (CP).—A Flying Fortress piloted by Lieut. Robert H. Smith, of Lamesa, Texas, shot down eleven enemy planes recently over Wilhelmshaven, establishing a new record of a single United States bomber in a single combat in the European theatre of operations, the United States air force announced today.

Crippled in the combat, the Fortress plunged into the North Sea on its return flight but all crew members were saved. They shivered in rubber dinghies for thirty hours before their whistles finally attracted a British rescue ship.

Mainland Justice Well Known Here Dies in Hospital

Hon. Justice William Garland McQuarrie, of the British Columbia Court of Appeal and former Conservative member of Parliament for New Westminster, died in a Vancouver hospital Sunday at the age of sixty-seven, after a year's illness. He was elevated to the Appeal Court in 1933 and continued his work until very recently, though in ill-health.

Born in Ottawa on July 26, 1876, and educated in Winnipeg and New Westminster, he graduated from Toronto's Osgoode Hall in 1899 and was called to the bar in 1900. Deeply interested in public affairs he became president of the New Westminster Board of Trade in 1914, and two years later of that city's Conservative Association.

He was elected to the House of Commons in 1917, and again in 1921, 1925 and 1926, but was defeated in 1930.

As a member of the Empire Parliamentary Association he represented the Dominion on a tour of South Africa in 1924.

Mr. Justice McQuarrie was a cheerful, popular visitor in Victoria, where he had numerous friends. Many young lawyers had reason to remember his kindly personality.

WARM TRIBUTES PAID LATE JUSTICE

Several warm tributes were paid yesterday to his memory. Mr. Justice Gordon McG. Sloan, who had been his associate since 1937, said:

"In the death of Mr. Justice McQuarrie there passed away a very worthy man, one of sympathetic and kindly understanding, of quiet strength of character, a man of good will. He was my friend, and I shall miss him. I join my colleagues of the court in expressing to his family our very deep sympathy in their great loss."

Mr. Justice Sidney Smith spoke at the opening of the Supreme Court here yesterday.

"I feel," he said, "that I cannot enter upon my duties this morning without referring to the passing of Mr. Justice McQuarrie of the Court of Appeal yesterday.

"His death was not unexpected, but, as it always does, it comes with a deep sense of loss.

"Mr. Justice McQuarrie was a native of Ottawa but had been a resident of New Westminster for a number of years and represented that city well in the House of Commons.

"For over ten years he was a judge of the Court of Appeal and was known throughout the province for his sympathy and kindness to all with whom he came into contact.

"His loss is a grievous one for the bench of the province. Our sympathy goes out to the family, including his son, Colin, now serving overseas with the Canadian Army."

Funeral services will be held in Vancouver tomorrow. Surviving the late justice are his wife, living in New Westminster; one son, Lieut. Colin McQuarrie with the Canadian Army overseas, and one daughter, Mrs. R. P. Peers, of Vancouver.

Schofield Fights On

Nearing the third week since he was injured when his bicycle collided with an army jeep, fifteen-year-old David Schofield remains in a semi-conscious state at the Jubilee Hospital. Progress since the time of the accident has been slight, but the boy is fighting gamely for his life and his youthful stamina is standing him in good stead.

LONDON (CP).—A new naval section, known as "port recovery parties," has come into being as a result of the North African campaign. A recovery party, in which divers were included, quickly cleared Tripoli harbor of wrecks and obstructions, thus facilitating Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's rapid advance.

Reserve Army May Still Have to Defend Canada

Ralston Tells House Equipment Being Built Up Against Possible "Necessity" of Action

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP).—Defence Minister Ralston tonight warned the House of Commons that "we are not out of the woods yet," and that there might yet be the "opportunity and the necessity" for the Reserve Army.

He said the Reserve Army would be called upon to play an increasingly important role, particularly in anti-aircraft work, and that it must be prepared to defend the shores of Canada.

[illegible] tion of the war appropriation for the current fiscal year in committee of the whole.

Col. Ralston told the House that efforts were being made to complete equipment of the Reserve Army with weapons and progress was being achieved.

In the course of the discussion Munitions Minister Howe denied reports that manufacture of Bren guns was being curtailed.

"We are still increasing the production of Bren guns and probably will be for some time," the minister said. He denied a report referred to by T. C. Douglas (C.C.F., Weyburn) that he (Mr. Howe) had told an interviewer in Washington that munitions production in Canada had reached a point where restrictions of manufacture for civilian manufacture could be relaxed.

QUOTES FROM WASHINGTON STORY

Mr. Douglas quoted from a Washington story in The Winnipeg Free Press to that effect and said it sounded inconsistent with Colonel Ralston's statement that supplies available had not yet permitted full equipment of the Reserve Army.

Colonel Ralston last week tabled figures showing an estimate of $273,325,890 required for ammunition and bombs in the current fiscal year, compared with $17,327,329 in 1942-43. The figure for armament was nearly doubled, at $123,070,907, against $63,832,169.

Howard Green (Progressive Conservative, Vancouver South) asked why it would not be possible to complete the equipping of the Reserve Army, and if the time was not coming when the reserve would have virtually the whole task of defending Canada.

Colonel Ralston gave no details, but said a more important role was intended for the reserve and its equipment would be brought to completion as supplies permitted.

He said there had been considerable improvement in the provision of supplies for the reserve. Bren gun equipment was not yet up to the establishment of the reserve.

WATERPROOF UNIFORM FOR COAST RANGERS

Replying to another question from Mr. Green the minister said he was not in a position to reveal what arms were being provided the Pacific Coast Rangers, but that 15,000 water-repellent uniforms, two per man, had been authorized in the past fortnight.

Colonel Ralston said the Reserve Army had several functions, particularly local or community defence, and general defence. "It should inspire the people to a realization that the war is not won," said the minister.

"We cannot wait until the Hun is on our doorstep before getting ready to fight," he added.

There was an obligation on the part of citizens to sacrifice some of their time and comfort to prepare for the possible necessity of defending their homes.

"It was not until six months ago that the tide apparently turned," said the minister.

"Up to that it was a pretty blue time and we are not out of the woods yet."

He said there might yet be an "opportunity and the necessity" for the Reserve Army to function in the defence of Canada.

J. G. Diefenbaker (Progressive Conservative, Lake Centre) said the minister had noted the possibility of the Reserve Army being used in the defence of Canada. This meant the reserve should be fully equipped. He wondered if there were such an excess of rifles, mortars and machine guns that production could be leveled off.

WONDERS ABOUT POSSIBLE CURTAILMENT

He wondered if the boys' anti-tank rifles were to be cut off, and Bren and other types' production decreased . . . if this were planned, it was not justifiable at the present time.

Colonel Ralston said he could not give Mr. Diefenbaker information on whatever changes were planned.

Mr. Diefenbaker: "Will he give the assurance there will be no reduction in production until the Reserve Army is fully equipped?"

Colonel Ralston: "I cannot do that. There might be some demand fore something more important."

Ltd. plants will apply for an arbitration board to consider a dispute over closed shop agreements, Thomas G. MacKenzie, secretary-treasurer of the Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders' Union, announced today.

De Gaulle Is In N. Africa

New Committee to Govern All French

ALGIERS, May 31 (AP).—Gen. Charles De Gaulle arrived in Algiers Sunday for final French unity talks with Gen. Henri Giraud and received a thunderous ovation from the public.

The Fighting French leader said a new executive committee would consist of a number of members which would head ministries similar to those of a government, and would govern the French Republic.

Before De Gaulle's plane touched ground at an obscure airport where Giraud awaited him, Giraud said recent conversations "have shown agreement has been reached between the French National Committee in London and the French High Command in Algiers."

De Gaulle received newspapermen shortly after 5,000 people had stood in the broiling sun for two hours to give him a rousing demonstration of support as he placed flowers at the monument to war dead in Algiers.

Shouts of "Vive De Gaulle" went up in the great square when the Fighting French general appeared. Hats were thrown in the air and many made the "V for victory" sign. De Gaulle turned to the people with a salute in which he stretched both arms toward them. As he descended the stairs, the crowd burst into "La Marseillaise," putting emphasis on the line about the "day of glory has arrived."

START SETTING UP COMMITTEE

The strong-willed generals started setting up an executive committee immediately to govern all their free countrymen of the Empire until Frenchmen again can choose their Government by free ballot.

he discussions started in an atmosphere of at least outward conciliation and with Giraud's statement that "This is no time for speeches, but for action for France."

Giraud is military and civil commander-in-chief in North Africa and has under his jurisdiction an army of 300,000.

De Gaulle heads the Fighting French National Committee. Under his authority are French Equatorial Africa, Syria, Lebanon, Madagascar and islands in the South Pacific such as Tahiti and New Caledonia, where United States troops have bases. He also controls the tiny islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, close to Newfoundland.

The long awaited arrival of De Gaulle took place on a dusty little airfield of the French Air Force.

Giraud strode forward to meet him. The two saluted simultaneously and shook hands. Both looked grave, neither smiled.

De Gaulle was accompanied by Rene Massigli, former French ambassador to Turkey and now Fighting French Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, and by Andre Philipe, his Commissioner for Interior and Labor.

Gen. Georges Catroux, Fighting French Commissioner for Syria and liaison officer who did much to bring the generals together, was with Giraud to meet De Gaulle. Gen. Martial Valin, Fighting French Commissioner for Air, also was with Giraud at the airport.

The Hudson's Bay Company was formed in 1670.

Second Short Snorter Bill In Victoria

A second Victoria woman, Miss C. B. Robertson, 2431 Currie Road, reports since Saturday the possession of a one-dollar "short snorter" note which was given her in change. As in the case of Captain and Mrs. B. Anscomb, who first reported Mrs. Anscomb's find at a corner grocery, Miss Robertson is likewise a resident of the Oak Bay area.

The Anscomb bill bears seven signatures. Miss Robertson's has three. The first name on Miss Robertson's bill is "Robinson." The second, she has not been able to decipher, but the third, she says, is written clearly. The rightful owner, Miss Robertson adds, may easily identify the bill by telling her correctly the third name.

In Calgary, too, there is a recipient of a short snorter bill, Johnny Morrison, who states, however, that he does not remember precisely when or how he obtained it, although he believes that it may have been at a recent race meet in that city. Morrison's bill also bears three signatures. They appear to be "Jim Powell," "George A. Johnson" and "Al Cain." In addition, there are the initials "W.A.H." and the date of March 20, 1943.

None of the names appearing on either the Robertson or Morrison bill is on the note which came into possession of Mrs. Anscomb.

Confirmation Rite Is Administered

Rt. Rev. H. Sexton, Bishop of British Columbia, was present on Salt Spring Island last Sunday for the purpose of administering the rite of confirmation. Two services were held, one at St. Mark's, Central Settlement, at 11 a.m. when the following were candidates for confirmation: Jocelyn Sharpe, Ivy Sampson, Robert Charles Beddis, James Crawford, Donald F. Cousens, Colin Byron, Geoffrey Howland, Bruce R. Sampson.

The second service took place at 2 o'clock at St. Mary's, Fulford, the candidates being Ruth Price, Hilda Ruby Lacy, Winifred Ella Stewart, Irene Laundry, Jean Laundry, John H. P. Price, Edward Ord Lacy, Harold Ord Lacy, John Alexander Stewart, George Ralph English, Alfred Laundry.

The nineteen candidates were presented for confirmation by Ven. Archdeacon G. H. Holmes.

After the morning service the bishop was the luncheon guest of Archdeacon and Mrs. Holmes at Harbour House, Ganges. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Parsons, Miss Muriel Holmes and Mr. John Wilfert.

Awarded Medal For Dangerous Mercy Flight

VANCOUVER, May 31 (CP).—For a hazardous flight taking medical aid to a stricken American soldier in the Yukon Territory, Leslie E. Cook, Canadian civilian aviator, has been awarded the United States Air Medal posthumously, his widow was advised today by the United States War Department. Cook died in a plane crash last December 4, less than a month after the incident.

The letter to Mrs. Cook recalled that her husband volunteered to fly doctors from Whitehorse 300 miles to the Donjek River area the night of October 16, 1942, in the face of weather conditions so serious one experienced pilot refused to make the journey.

It was necessary to land on a dry river bed by the lights of parked trucks," the letter said. By successfully completing this dangerous mission, the physicians were able to operate and save the life of the soldier."

Following an accident in which he lost his right arm after being crushed while working on an elevator at Belmont House Saturday afternoon, Arthur E. Humphries, 3126 Qu'Appelle Street, was last night reported resting about as well as might be expected in the face of such a grave injury. He is being attended at St. Joseph's Hospital by Dr. Gordon Kenning.

Little Stories for Bedtime - - -

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Give a little sympathy
When you see the need.
You will find your own reward
In a kindly deed.

Danny Meadow Mouse was hurrying back toward the place where he had been parted from Nanny Meadow Mouse. He just couldn't bear to go to their old home without her, so he had turned around and was going back. He was so sure that something must have happened to her and that he never, never would see her again that tears were in his eyes and he didn't half see where he was going. The result was that he ran plump into Peter Rabbit. It is a question which was the most startled.

"Oh!" cried Peter, jumping straight up in the air and all ready to run the instant he touched the ground again. Then he saw who it was and he fairly shouted; that is, he shouted as loud as Peter can shout, which isn't loud at all. "Danny Meadow Mouse!" he cried. "Danny Meadow Mouse! Let me feel of you and see if it really is you! Where under the sun have you been all Winter? I thought something dreadful must have happened to you long ago. No one seemed to know anything about you. Everybody has supposed that Shadow the Weasel gobbled you up long ago. Where have you been? What have you been doing? Why haven't we seen you before? Oh, but I am glad to see you now! You have no idea how you have been missed. Where is Nanny Meadow Mouse?"

At the mention of Nanny the tears in Danny's eyes overflowed. "That's what I want to know, Peter," he sobbed. "Haven't you seen her anywhere?"

"No," said Peter. "I haven't seen her anywhere, but then I haven't been where I would be likely to see her. I had just reached the fence row when you came bumping into me, and scared me half to death."

Danny had to smile through his tears. In spite of his trouble, he was tickled at the idea of having frightened one so much bigger than himself. Peter saw the smile and chuckled himself, as if he thought it a great joke, as, indeed, he did.

"If anyone had told me that you would or could make me jump almost out of my skin I wouldn't have believed it," said he. "But you did, and to pay for it you have got to tell me all about your troubles, Danny Meadow Mouse. Now, what has happened to Nanny and when did it happen? Begin at the beginning and tell me about it."

Danny began to tell how Redtail the Hawk had separated them, but Peter interrupted. "That isn't the beginning or anywhere near the beginning, Danny Meadow Mouse," said he severely. "Where were you all Winter? Begin with the time you left your old home on the Green Meadows."

So, because he saw there was no way out of it, Danny began at the beginning and told Peter how he and Nanny had moved to the cornfield and made a new home in a corn shock; how Farmer Brown and his boy had come and carried the corn away in a wagon, taking Danny and Nanny with it; how they had spent a happy and comfortable Winter in Farmer Brown's barn; how with the coming of sweet Mistress Spring they had grown homesick for the Green Meadows; how they had started on the long journey back, and finally how they had been separated and how he, Danny, didn't know what had become of Nanny.

Peter Listened With Eyes Stretched Wide in Wonder at Danny's Strange Tale.

Peter listened with eyes stretched wide in wonder at Danny's strange tale, but when he reached the part about the parting with Nanny, then Peter forgot everything but Danny's trouble and a great desire to help him.

"Stop your worrying, Danny," said he. "Nanny is quite able to take care of herself, and I'm going to help you find her."

"Will you, Peter? Oh, will you?" cried Danny. "You've made me feel better already. You can't think how much better you have made me feel."

Next story: "Peter Looks for Nanny Meadow Mouse."

Mrs. Wolfenden Pioneer Resident Called by Death

A pioneer resident of Victoria to which she first came in the year 1858, Mrs. Felicite Caroline Wolfenden, eighty-eight years of age, widow of Lieut.-Col. Richard Wolfenden, died yesterday at the Royal Jubilee Hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Wolfenden, daughter of John Bayley, was born of English parents in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1855. She came to Fort Victoria by way of San Francisco in 1858 and resided here with her parents until 1861, when the family returned to England. She received her education in England. She returned to Victoria in 1873 by way of the Isthmus of Panama with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Innes and family, Mr. Innes being naval storekeeper at H.M. Drydock, Esquimalt.

Mrs. Wolfenden's father was superintendent of police here under Magistrate A. F. Pemberton after he first arrived in Victoria, and he also helped to organize the old Philharmonic Society, associated with him being the late A. T. Bushby, another well-known pioneer of the city.

Mrs. Wolfenden taught in the public school in Esquimalt and in 1879 married Lieut.-Col. Richard Wolfenden, Colonel Wolfenden, who came to British Columbia in 1859 to serve with the Royal Engineers in New Westminster, died in 1911.

The family home here had been for some years at 2361 Cranmore Road. Until about five years ago, Mrs. Wolfenden had led a very active life. For many years she was a member of the Women's Auxiliary of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, and years ago she was an active member of old St. James' Anglican Church, James Bay. She was a garden enthusiast and for a long time belonged to the Victoria Horticultural Society.

She was Col. Wolfenden's second wife. Of their seven children, there survive F. L. (Jack) Wolfenden, Santa Rosa, Cal.; Victor A. Wolfenden, Vancouver, and Miss Madge Wolfenden, acting British Columbia provincial archivist, Victoria. There are also several stepchildren: W. W. Wolfenden, Vancouver; Mrs. Guy Constable, Creston, B.C.; Mrs. G. F. Mathews, Roberts Bay, B.C.; Mrs. Duncan Robertson, Victoria, and Mrs. R. B. Streatfeild, Victoria.

Funeral announcement will be made later.

EUROPE'S FOOD PROBLEM

A conference of representatives of the United Nations at Hot Springs, Virginia, has been discussing the distribution of foodstuffs to suffering nations after the war. It has held its meetings in camera, and there were, perhaps, good reasons for this since there is a disinclination to let the enemy know what is proposed. As an outcome of the conference a decision have been reached, which is of special concern to the United States and the British Empire, to build up large food reserves in preparation when the time will come for their distribution to those peoples of Europe now living in a state of semi-starvation. The extent to which this plan can be reconciled, with the ever-growing rationing system now in process among the United Nations, is not explained, save that it is intimated that food rationing will be continued into the years of peace so that reserves may be available for those who are suffering most.

If the Archbishop of Canterbury is to be believed the end of the war will find "a relatively vigorous Germany surrounded by people so weakened by starvation as to present an inevitable drawback to after-war plans. In Belgium the heavy workers are receiving a diet of 2,300 calories from the Germans, but the women and children are only receiving 700-900 calories which means widespread starvation." In a varying degree the same conditions prevail in other enemy-occupied countries, and, so long as the war continues, it has been declared on behalf of the Third Reich that "whoever starves, the Germans will not." Some think that when peace comes the relief of shipping from its present preoccupation will mean that it will be possible to send large supplies of foodstuffs to suffering nations. There is no assurance of this, and not for some years at least. In the first place shipping will be required for the repatriation of troops overseas. Secondly, it is a question, with the shortage of foodstuffs that now exists owing to the lack of labor in its production, whether there will be any large supply of such commodities available for transport overseas.

It is evident that the Hot Springs conference has had a problem of many difficulties to encounter, and that, whatever plans it may have been able to devise, have limitations which will be insuperable as long as the war lasts and for some time thereafter. There are food shortages everywhere. In the range of comparison, of course, this continent is highly favored, but even in this quarter of the world new rationing is going into effect all the time, and, except in the matter of grain supplies, the only surpluses there are go to those nations overseas who are fighting the battle for freedom. That need will continue after the war until trade readjusts itself; until there is such a redistribution of labor as will lead to a greater output of foodstuffs. These are conditions that cannot be re-established overnight. In other wards, the sufferings now apparent in those countries which the enemy has occupied will maintain for a considerable time, and, as the Archbishop of Canterbury says, will prove "a drawback to after-war plans." It is only in a very limited way now that the United Nations can make preparations to meet the situation. It is excellent that they should try, but the handicaps are great.

THE HOUSING CANVASS

The record of the Federal Government in the matter of Canada's undoubted housing problem does not start with the current registration of accommodation in private homes. In a large part, it is the story of what necessity can do in the absence of a clear and unequivocal policy. The fact is that Canada in housing has had many policies, and sometimes they have conflicted, one with another. The problem now is that of transplanted families for whom some form of shelter must be found. A good deal happened first.

To begin with, Canada took a definite stand on the question of housing construction immediately prior to, and also in the first years of this war. There was national assistance for individuals who had a little money with which to build. Under that scheme, in its various changes, this community benefited. A good many homes were built on the time-purchase plan. The Dominion advanced part of the cost, and private enterprise whatever was needed of the balance.

Housing loans, however, broke down when an actual shortage of building materials developed. Across Canada from coast to coast a wave of home building stopped; here because of nails, there because of some other supplies transferred to wartime industry. The same factors kept home owners from remodelling their dwellings, and from making any alterations or repairs. Then the Dominion turned to mass construction of emergency wartime dwellings on the group settlement plan. Progress, however, has not kept pace with the needs, especially in those centres into which there has come an accumulation of transplanted families.

In the present canvass, which is being conducted under the compulsion of law, homeowners are being asked to state what accommodation they can place at the disposal of the country in the light of this housing shortage. The shortage is real, and perhaps compulsion was not needed to make the people in most communities aware of that. Accommodation, however, is not in itself a complete answer to any such inquiry. There are also the questions of hours and of occupancy. Most homes were built as homes, and not as boarding houses.

National policy itself has stopped the construction of boarding houses and apartments. Housing congestion has come from the moving of individuals in the armed services and in wartime industries away from their homes. There should be no disposition now to say at any point that this is the fault of this, or of any other community. Quite clearly it is not, on the contrary, where individual property owners can help, in most cases they will be found ready to do so. It must also be recognized that many small home owners cannot help, and for physical reasons of space, time and often matters of individual health. The problem is there, and it is one, perhaps, for all people in harmony to try to work out. While that is so, the element of compulsion in the matter of the registration might with much better grace have been left out.

WHERE IS THE SECURITY?

What are described as compulsory savings, deducted in this country at the source of income or wages, are a definite percentage coming under the head of income tax paid to the Government. In Great Britain the system is somewhat different. In April, 1941, there were decreased exemptions free from income tax. For instance a single person's tax-free allowance and reduced from £100 to £80; while a married couple's tax-free allowance was reduced from £170 to £140; and earned income allowance was reduced from one-sixth to one-tenth. These decreases in allowance have, in the main, affected persons with low incomes. They increased the number of weekly wage-earners from 2,500,000 to 5,500,000. With these decreases it was decided "to avoid inflicting any permanent hardship upon persons of low income," and that any sums paid in income tax as a result of these reductions would be refunded to the taxpayer after the war in the form of an account in the Post Office Savings Bank. The maximum refund is £65 for each individual each tax year.

It is, because of this plan, that Mr. Churchill in his recent "rehabilitation" broadcast was able to say that "at the end of this war there will be 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 people in the country (Great Britain) with £200 to £300 apiece, a thing unknown in our history. These savings of the nation, arising from the thrift, skill or devotion of individuals, are sacred. The State is built around them, and it is the duty of the State to redeem its faith in an equal degree of value." The point is that compulsory savings in this country should be regarded as equally sacred, but they cannot be until postwar credits are issued and the people here know exactly where they stand in this particular and have the necessary documentary assurance from the Government that they will be repaid. This is a matter that has been allowed to lapse for too long. A pledge has been given that compulsory savings will be returned. Where is the security that this promise will be redeemed?

MR. JUSTICE McQUARRIE

The passing of Mr. Justice McQuarrie in Vancouver on Sunday removes one of the senior members of the British Columbia Court of Appeal, one who was in an individual sense a link with many successive panels of that tribunal. Long in public life, in local administration at New Westminster, as a former member of the House of Commons, Ottawa, and for a number of years as a member of the Court of Appeal, Mr. William Garland McQuarrie was widely known throughout British Columbia, where he was held in great respect.

A quiet-spoken, self-effacing man, the late Mr. Justice McQuarrie was identified over a period of some forty-three years with the Bar and Bench in this Province. Both in the course of his duties, and also in his private capacity as a citizen, he made a host of friends. His interests were wide and human. There were few subjects with which he was not familiar, and to each he brought a capable mind and no little degree of personal elucidation and charm.

A good many causes have been argued before the Court of Appeal since the late Mr. Justice McQuarrie first took his place as a member. A good Canadian and a kindly man then, his patience, wisdom and innate kindliness only ripened with the years. There will not be many in British Columbia today, knowing both the judge and the man beneath the gown, who will not feel a real sense of loss at his passing. In that feeling we share sincerely. To the family, including one son now on active service for Canada, we express a profound sympathy.

There are some politicians, and others; even whole political parties, who are confining their attention, almost exclusively, to the question of "social security" for their own nations after the war. For these Mr. Winston Churchill has a warning contained in his speech to the American Congress when he said: "We must beware of every topic, however attractive, and every tendency, however natural, which turns our minds or energies from the supreme objective of the general victory of the United Nations. By singleness of purpose, by steadfastness of conduct, by tenacity and endurance such as we have so far displayed—by these and only by these can we discharge our duty to the future of the world and to the destiny of man."

Freedom from fear and want is promised by politicians to all as an aftermath of the war. It is a promise never accompanied by the scriptural injunction: "Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise."

SPRING ISN'T RATIONED

Who can limit the bluebird?
Who would ration a thrush?
Was there ever a three-pair shoe-bird
Walking a lilac bush?
A blossom is but the sweeter
When sugar evades the cup;
And Helios has a heater
Whose coupons can't be used up.

So, as the soft sky brightens
And the slender willows glow,
As a bank of bloodroot whitens
The places of vanished snow—
Each leaf and each petal waking,
Each happy bud uncurled,
Can laugh at the laws we're making
In a green, unrationed world.

—Adin Ballou, in The New York Herald-Tribune.

MY BOY JACK
1914-18

"Have you news of my boy Jack?"
Not this tide.
"When d'you think that he'll come back?"
Not with this wind blowing, and this tide.

"Has any one else had word of him?"
Not this tide.
For what is sunk will hardly swim,
Not with this wind blowing, and this tide.

"Oh, dear, what comfort can I find?"
None this tide,
Nor any tide,
Except he did not shame his kind—
Not even with that wind blowing, and that tide.

Then hold your head up all the more,
This tide,
And every tide;
Because he was the son you bore,
And gave to that wind blowing and that tide!

—Rudyard Kipling.

Nothing puzzles me more than time and space; and yet nothing puzzles me less, for I never think about them.—Charles Lamb.

THE WEEK

Western Front—In the lull before the coming storm, the United Nations carried the Western aerial war to a fresh peak. More than 8,000 tons of bombs were dropped on Germany and enemy occupied objectives by United Kingdom, Canadian and United States machines. The R.A.F., with the R.C.A.F. co-operating, made four of the heaviest raids of the war on the Ruhr Valley. Dortmund on Sunday, Duesseldorf on Tuesday, Essen on Thursday and Wuppertal on Saturday night were the schedule. The first two cities named received 2,000 tons of bombs each, at the rate of 33 tons per minute. Essen was the target for several hundred machines, carrying 1,000 tons of bombs; and Jena, far to the east, was raided at dusk on the same evening at the Zeiss Works. British planes concluded the week with a heavy massed raid on Wuppertal, between Dortmund and Duesseldorff. From all four missions 121 bombers failed to return. The striking force was made up principally of four-motored machines. Meanwhile, United States machines rode in force against many enemy occupied centres. The largest force of United States machines yet to take the air together gave St. Nazaire its heaviest air raid of the war. Other targets from Abbeville to La Pallise were visited on day missions and with precision bombing effect. In between night and day raids fighter and fighter-bomber sweeps scoured the European coast and brushed aside Luftwaffe opposition. In retaliation, the Luftwaffe stabbed at Britain on four nights out of the seven, once with twenty-five machines. At an East Coast port some damage was done, and late in the week the enemy hit a Sunday school in an in-and-out foray which killed fourteen children and injured several others.

Europe seethed under martial law. The rumor pot at Stockholm, Berne and Ankara boiled over. The United Nations, through Mr. Churchill at Washington, gave Italy a strong hint to stand clear now, before she is knocked out by force of arms. Four hundred plane raids on Messina, and an escorting air barrage from Pantelleria to Naples, emphasized Mr. Churchill's remark that Italy would only bring a bleak future on herself unless she threw herself on the mercy of the Allies now. There were nerves at Rome, but no clear statement. The Allies concluded a sixteen-day staff conference at Washington, where "complete agreement was reached on future operations in all theatres of war," as it was formally announced. The King decorated General Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Douglas MacArthur, outstanding leaders in the combined commands. Seventeen Canadians were decorated at Buckingham Palace, six for participation in the successful attacks on the Mohne and Eder dams in Germany, Wing Commander G. P. Gibson, D.S.O., D.F.C. and bars, received the Victoria Cross for leading the same exploit. Commander John W. Linton, R.N., in command of the British submarine Turbulent, received the Victoria Cross for equal gallantry in action. London reported the enemy's U-boat offensive had run into another check from our side. With air torpedoes and motor-boats, the Allies harried German shipping over the Channel coast and sank a total of nine vessels in miscellaneous brushes; one thirty miles off the Isle of Wight and others off The Netherlands and Cherbourg. The feel of attack was in the air, but the signal had not yet been given.

Eastern Front—There was cautious sparring on the Eastern front, rising to bitter clashes in the Kuban delta and northeast of Novorossisk, clashes in which the Russians appeared to have taken the upper hand. In the Krymskaya area of the south the tide of battle flowed through successive attacks and counter-attacks, supported mutually by some weight of air and artillery strength. The Russians held their positions and made some headway. Brushes came also at Rostov, Izyum, Smolensk and at Staraya Russa, along the whole length of the line. Back of the lines, both forces were pounding communications by air. Russian machines made heavy attacks on Roslavl, Yelna, and at several other points. German planes rapped Bataisk and assembly points in the Kuban to the southeast. There was, however, no great change of fortunes or positions, though, with drying weather, the whole front became alert and actively patrolled. Russian sources announced that more than 300 German planes had been destroyed in the seven days' fighting. Under cover of the official communiques (which had said the Russians were attacking), German troops made at least two hard attempts to break the Russian hold at Krymskaya and Novorossisk. Both failed. In the last attempt, German forces were forced back a mile and a half from their jumping-off lines. The period ended with cautious patrols on either side. Aerial activity notably increased.

In the Mediterranean—In seven days Italy was given a taste of war that she had not before experienced in this conflict. Allied air sorties increased from 100 machines over Pantelleria, to 400 machines over Messina. Around the coastlines of Sardinia and Sicily, Allied planes were picking out enemy targets and pounding them almost without interruption and at will. Airfield after airfield was laid in ruins, their machines pitted with shrapnel bombs and their runways torn up by high explosives. On several occasions flights of fifty German fighters attempted to hold off the rain of metal from the air. In each case they were brushed off, and roughly handled. Numbers of enemy fighters were shot down on their own dromes. The detail of the air attacks became too voluminous to chronicle readily. Pantelleria was under civil evacuation. Sardinia and Sicily saw ports, railways and dromes disappear in a smother of hundreds of tons of the heaviest bombs. Foggia, Leghorn, Naples, and several other cities and towns on the southern half of Italy felt the weight of Allied bombs. From Rome it was announced that Allied leaflets were fluttering down over Southern Italy on every wind and from almost every cloud. The leaflets, however, were punctuated with the greatest weight of metal that has fallen on Italian soil in this conflict. Italian naval units and Italian planes were not mentioned in any action reported here. Many enemy cargo vessels were bombed and burned at their docks. In North Africa, General Eisenhower announced that the British First and Eighth Armies, and the Second United States Army Corps, were ready again for action as one of the most closely-knitted forces in the field. In Tunisia also, General Giraud and General Charles de Gaulle clasped hands. From Alexandria, it was announced that the interned French fleet there, including a battleship, four cruisers, three destroyers and a submarine, had cast in their lot on the Allied side.

Other Fronts—In Burma, the rains came in the southlands at the start of the monsoons. In the north British and United States machines increased their bombing on Japanese posts, without effective interference from the enemy. There was no reported change of position on the ground. The Japanese made two retaliatory raids on Chittagong, but were turned back twice in succession without reaching their targets. In China, a fresh Japanese thrust in the Ichang area produced hard fighting. Chinese troops countered immediately, and followed this with several air raids on Ichang and nearby enemy positions. In the Southwestern Pacific there was long-range sparring by air on both sides. Lae, Rabaul, Gasmata and other island posts were bombed heavily from our side; with some return on Allied holdings in New Guinea. The main action in the Pacific, however, resulted from the United States land attack upon Attu, in the Aleutian chain. After eighteen days of hard fighting, the last of the Japanese forces on Attu were first separated and then destroyed, leaving only a few snipers who had escaped with their lives to the barren hills. Twice during the period Japanese planes attempted to raid American positions on shore at Holtz Bay and near Chicagof Harbor. Both attempts were turned aside, and sixteen enemy machines were shot down in the last try. Firmly astride of Attu, which is the westernmost of the Aleutian chain, the Allies turned their attention to Kiska, which was heavily bombed. Canadian machines participated in the Kiska raids. Tokio, after wild claims to the contrary, conceded the loss of Attu as the period ended. It was a strategic gain to our side, 600 airline miles from the Kurile Islands, and deep inside Japan's 2,000-mile defensive arc at sea. And so the world turned to June, the month of battles, and perhaps the greatest in the global war.

Trust Placed in General Foch—The morning newspaper commentators take the view that the situation on the Western Front is very serious, even critical, but there is no note of despondency in their reviews. The arrival of reserves reported by the French is noted with satisfaction and hope, although it is not known whether the reserves are sufficient in number to establish an approximate numerical equilibrium of the opposing forces, whose proportions are generally stated to have been from four or five to one in favor of the Germans since the beginning of the battle. Confidence is expressed that General Foch, the Allied commander, will make the best of the difficult situation, and it is urged that he be trusted implicitly.

A Department of Munitions and Supply official informed the City Council yesterday there were still ways and means for many citizens to rustle fuel in the country. The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the bar at the Esquimalt Drydock at any time and date, add the height of tide given in the table above given.

Rationing That Is Proving a Fiasco

(From The Vancouver Province)

Man never is, but always to be blessed—and especially down at our Government liquor stores. There for the growing queues of hopeful-against-hope permit holders, it is jam yesterday, jam tomorrow, but never jam today. Once more, it is apparent, the cupboard of our Old Mother Hubbard of the Liquor Board is so nearly bare as makes no matter.

Mr. Kennedy, our well-meaning but obviously helpless liquor controller, says he has nothing to say until the end of the month. He says very honestly that he doesn't know yet what he will do. But what he would better say is that whatever he does, it will not be to deliver the goods.

Mr. Kennedy had better come right out and say that. He can't deliver the goods because he hasn't got the goods to deliver. And unless Ottawa experiences a change of heart, of which now there is not the slightest expectation, Mr. Kennedy will be in that position at least until the end of the current liquor year in October.

Obviously Mr. Kennedy's latest valiant attempt to work the unworkable has broken down. He had hoped he could persuade enough of his customers to take a dozen bottles of beer, for their sole alcoholic allowance for the month, to permit the inveterate hard-liquor people to have their monthly potation of twenty-six ounces of their favorite poison.

It hasn't worked out that way and of course anyone, except a desperate official of the most unexceptionable intentions, might have known it couldn't work out. Why doesn't Mr. Kennedy, as the beginning of realism at last, admit the fact and done with it?

He would do much better, in fact, to shut down the liquor stores completely, for a couple of months, say, than to continue with the present farce. As it is now, it is pretty certain, a majority of the bona fide liquor permit holders are not getting any legal liquor at all.

THE RED CROSS

Mother of succour, the whole world wide
To favor none! But every side
Doth see in thee what we all know:
The universal heart aglow!

To North and South, to East and West—
Here lie the fields of thine own quest;
Disaster! Flood! War's bitter toll
Doth seek thy strength, thy very soul.

I.. act of mercy oft untold,
In glorious deeds that ne'er grow old,
(In calm, in storm, in grievous loss—)
We find in these—the true Red Cross!

—Alan Greig

West opened the jack of spades. (Usually it is correct to lead the fourth highest of partner's bid suit, but this rule is not inviolate when the opening leader has honors in sequence.) West won the first trick with the spade king, and apparently deciding to keep the spade ace as an entry (for what purpose is not clear), shifted to the club queen. Declarer won, drew the trumps in one round, cashed his other top club and then entered dummy with a trump and ruffed the nine of clubs. Now, correctly refusing to risk the heart finesse, he exited with the spade queen. As per declarer's legitimate expectations, East had to win this trick and any return he selected would give declarer the rest of the tricks. A club or a spade would let declarer discard a heart while ruffing in dummy, and a heart return would, of course, obviate the necessity for any finesse.

East's decision to hold on to the spade ace (assuming that it was a decision and not complete thoughtlessness) was without rhyme or reason. Admittedly, he could not know that declarer's marked spade queen would drop, but that had no essential bearing on the play. Presumably, East was aiming at the establishment of a club trick for his side before declarer could discard a club from dummy on the spade queen (if he had it well guarded). But any defensive club trick depended on finding West with at least the club king. If declarer had both the ace and king of clubs, it would be futile for East to attack the suit, because declarer could establish his own spade queen before he lost club control. Conversely, if declarer had only one honor in clubs, East could well afford to cash the ace and king of spades before shifting, because even if this did establish the spade queen for declarer, he would be able to throw only one club from dummy on that card.

Obviously enough, all East had to do was get out of the way so that he could not be thrown on lead, and eventually he would have had to be given the heart king for the setting trick.

Germans Kill Children in Church Then Tell of Bombing "Important" British Military Establishments

LONDON, May 31 (CP).—A six-foot carving of the crucifixion still hung today over a pile of rubble that was the parish church of a Southwest England town until German raiders wrecked it Sunday, killing at least eighteen children and three Sunday school teachers.

The crucifix was suspended from an archway which, besides the steeple, was the only part of the building left standing.

While rescue workers still dug in debris in search of other victims, the German radio broadcast a communique on the raid which said: "Fast German bombers raided harbor towns on the English south and southeast coast and dropped bombs of heavy calibre on installations of military importance."

Besides the dead so far counted, fourteen children were seriously injured and ten slightly hurt. It was uncertain how many children and teachers are missing.

In other sections of the town a number of men, women and children were killed or injured as bombs from fifteen Focke-Wulf raiders crashed down in the town's worst raid.

IRONICAL NOTICE ON CHURCH GATE

On the church gate there was still a notice announcing that the collection at yesterday's service was to be given to the Bishops Fund for damaged churches.

Not one of those in the church—mostly children and teachers gathered for Sunday School classes—escaped death or injury.

Probably the saddest father in the town is Frank Perrott. His twelve-year-old twins, Michael and Mary, went to the service dressed in their best clothes. Last night he saw Mary's body brought out of the wreckage. He was still searching hospitals and the ruins for Michael.

"I saw the bomb hit the church from my own house," said Perrott. "It must have fallen near the altar and the whole building went up."

If Michael is dead, Perrott has only one child left. One son was attending a meeting in Exeter. Otherwise he would have been in the church too, because with Michael, he was a choir boy.

REGISTER BURIED IN DEBRIS

The Sunday school register was buried in debris which hindered the task of identification as parents and friends clawed their way through the rubble, some of them working barehanded, to take out little bodies.

G. Parker, who lived nearby, said five high explosive bombs fell in five roads surrounding his house.

"I went over to the church where the behavior of children was magnificent," he said. "Although brought out grievously wounded, many of them asked were their mothers safe."

The hardest worker was the vicar who carried on rescue work until after midnight.

It was revealed that at least two men sacrificed their lives to save members of their families.

Shielded by the body of her husband, one woman was found alive in the ruins of a workman's cottage. Her legs were fractured.

The town's director of education, walking with his child when the raiders came, protected the child with his own body and was killed by a cannon shell. The child was injured only slightly.

Picturesque Dance Review Is Presented

In aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium, Florence Clough presented her pupils in their annual dance revue at the Royal Victoria Theatre last night before a large and enthusiastic audience of parents and friends. Great care had been lavished on the production which was colorful in the extreme, the bevy of winsome young dancers being beautifully costumed and skilfully directed. Assisting on the programme were Miss Evanne Murray vocal soloist, and Mickey Frances, R.C.N.V.R., as master of ceremonies.

The opening scene entitled "Fairy Wonderland," introduced the younger children—some mere babies. The latter group as little bunnies almost stole the show. Other characters were the fairy queen, nymphs, flowers, birds, and frogs. The fairies and flowers were seen in graceful ballet numbers and the birds, dressed in ingenious plumage, were deservedly popular.

One of the most talented of the younger dancers was Frankie Rodwell who teamed with Patsy Gibson, another clever little pupil, appeared in several numbers and was soloist with "The Rhythmettes."

Solo tap dancers included Jerry Long, June Gibson, Theresa Perkins, Lorraine Kershaw, Marlene Graves and Sheila Warren. Ensemble numbers of great variety included the Chinese Fantasy, "Little Lady Make Believe," "Diamond Ballet" and "Grande Militaire." The latter featured the Victoria High School Majorettes.

"Waltzing," Pas Seul, Theresa Perkins; Pas de Deux, Ilace Roskelly and Bernice Fawcett; Valse Classique, Theresa Perkins and Laverne Atkinson introduced the more advanced pupils of the school as did "The Swingettes," with Velda Wille, student teacher, as soloist.

The closing Egyptian Ballet with Ilace Roskelly as solo dancer brought forth rounds of applause.

After the final curtain call flowers and gifts were showered on the youthful performers. Miss Clough was obliged to come on stage and share in the applause.

MANY DANCERS TAKE PART

Taking part in the variety of dances, which included tap, rhumba, tap, precision, Russian, Mexican, Chinese, tango, acrobatic as well as ballet and military numbers were the following pupils:

A.R.P. Activities

District 3—Deputy District Wardens O. E. Day and J. T. Gawthrop, who recently completed a gas instructors' course conducted by Dr. C. S. Beals, provincial gas officer, will give instruction this month to wardens of all posts. Posts A and B will meet at Quadra School on June 7 at 7:30 p.m., and Posts C and D will meet at the school on June 14. A short written test will be given at the first general meeting, to be held in July.

District 7, Saanich—Compulsory classes for A.R.P. personnel and first-aid workers, for the study of war gases, will begin tonight at 8 o'clock at Hampton Hall, and on June 3 at St. Martin's Hall. Residents in the district may attend. Two halls are being used because of the numbers to take the course, of four or five lectures. The courses at the two halls will be the same, and wardens and residents may attend the hall nearer their homes.

Saanich, District 5—In future district meetings will be held separately for A.R.P. personnel west of Elk Lake and for personnel east of Elk Lake. The meeting planned for Wednesday at St. Michael's has therefore been canceled.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

COLD SORES, FEVER BLISTERS, CANKER SORES

It is known that the majority, if not all of us, have within our tissues the organisms or germs that cause many diseases—colds, pneumonia and others—but because we are well or our tissues able to keep these organisms from developing, we are kept free from these particular diseases.

Among the simple but sometimes distressing and embarrassing ailments are cold sores, fever blisters, canker sores, ulcers on gums and other mouth irritations, caused by virus infection. A virus is a very small organism capable of passing through a porcelain filter. This virus or organism is given from one person to another, but most individuals probably have it always about their mouth and lips and if "suitable" conditions arise such as loss of power of the tissues to fight it off, the sores, blisters and ulcers develop.

Among the causes that interfere with the tissues resisting the virus, Drs. Lester R. Cahn and Henry A. Bartels, in The American Journal of Orthodontia, list the following:

In one attack a food or drug (nuts, fish, cheese, chocolate, caviar or barbiturate); in another, sunlight; in a third, injury; in a fourth, common cold; in a fifth, the monthly period in women. Either the strength of the virus is increased by the above mentioned causes, or else these causes lessen the resisting forces of the tissues.

These attacks of cold sores, fever blisters, canker sores and gum ulcers usually run their own course or length of time, despite the usual methods of treatment. Various solutions are helpful, such as equal parts of hydrogen peroxide and water; salt solutions, ½ teaspoonful to a glass of water. The old-fashioned treatment of equal parts of borax and honey is soothing and helps dry up the sore or ulcer. "Sulfathiazole may be of benefit."

However, Dr. Cahn and Bartels suggest that treatment to build up the general health is most important in increasing the body's resistance to the organism. This building up method consists of rest in bed, laxatives, a diet which is soft and free from acids (cutting down on eggs, fish, poultry and cereals, and eating more milk, fruit and vegetables); avoid salty foods and too many sweets.

Inflation—What It Means

By THELMA CRAIG

What would a runaway inflation mean to Canadians as individuals? What would it mean in terms of the family budget and the economic stability of the home?

If a dollar could buy only a tenth of what it now does, nine-tenths of our savings would be wiped out as purchasing power. If our savings amounted to $10,000, that amount would only buy what $1,000 formerly purchased. If we had a $1,000 life insurance policy, the total our beneficiary would receive would be hardly enough to pay for our funeral. If we were living [illegible] value of that pension to us in terms of buying power would be $250.

That is a sample of what runaway inflation would do to the pocketbooks of the nation. Uncontrolled inflation would result in the demoralization and gradual disintegration of family stability and our democratic system.

URGES PRICE CONTROL

As Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, says: "It is the most unfair and inequitable of all forms of taxation. It bears with special harshness upon the small or medium income class, the wage earner or salaried man and those whose income is fixed in terms of money. In the internal struggle for compensation which develops during an inflation, grave injustices are created, and in the mood of the world of today, I shudder to think of the class bitterness sure to emerge in the later period of readjustment. Surely all the promises of a brave new world will go for nothing unless we can control ourselves under the strains and stresses of war.

"Inflation is utterly inconsistent with our democratic traditions and our hopes for the future. It strikes at the very roots of any system of social security and creates conditions in which freedom of opportunity can have no place."

Inflation is a simple matter of more money and less goods. The "more money" comes from the boom in wartime employment, the "less goods" result when materials are siphoned away from civilian products to fighting equipment. Higher prices and higher wages will not enable us to buy more sugar or meat if those things are rationed. They will not enable us to buy automobiles or electric refrigerators when these are not being manufactured and made available. They will simply cause us to outbid each other in grabbing for the food and goods available.

And higher prices will make unbearable the burden of the woman who has a few $10 bills upon which to live while her husband is in the front line.

A.R.P. BENEFIT DANCE

A successful benefit dance was held in the Sooke Community Hall on Saturday evening. Residents from Jordan River, Shirley, Otter Point, Milnes Landing, Saseenos, North Sooke and all surrounding districts, as well as a splendid local attendance, supported the event.

The dance was arranged by the Sooke area A.R.P. and the music supplied by a Victoria orchestra was provided by the Elder Logging Company. The Sooke Community Association provided the hall and A.R.P. personnel the refreshments.

Single catches of sardines sometimes run as high as 200,000 pounds.

EVERY LAUNDRY WORKER releases 7 women every day for war work. Surely that, too, is helping to "Back the Attack."

THE WANTS OF MAN
A Message to 4 Million Canadians

"MAN wants but little here below," wrote Oliver Goldsmith.

Man's needs, he might have added, are even fewer.

Our pioneers needed no more than a few acres—a roof—a bed—food they shot or trapped or raised for themselves—a shelter for their cattle—a pen for their pigs.

But one deep-felt want meant more to them than all these needs . . . a yearning which drove them out of crowded Europe to our wide, free spaces.

What each of them wanted, more than anything in the world, was to be his own boss . . . to be the master of his fate.

Even a cottage is a castle to the man who values freedom and independence above all the sweets of life.

OUR pioneers put up a grim battle for their independence.

Today we are fighting an even grimmer battle to save and hold the freedom they sought.

They had faith in their own energy and enterprise, and with that energy and enterprise they built this nation.

Ours is the task to defend it . . . and not the nation only . . . but the rights of the individual . . . the right to think and act and embark on any proper enterprise a man chooses.

INDIVIDUAL independence is the most precious and the most difficult to guard of all human treasures.

Dictators have risen in many lands in many ages to wrest it from their peoples.

In this late day we are fighting again to restore it to the enslaved peoples of the world.

Here, at home, each man protects his own independence by frugality and thrift.

That is why life insurance has become the business of four million Canadians—a great, voluntary, co-operative business—as close to the pattern of democracy as any business can get.

It grew because people had to have it.

It is being maintained because people rely on it for their individual security and comfort and peace of mind.

No Appropriation This Year for Oak Bay Playgrounds

The Oak Bay playgrounds committee held a meeting recently at the home of the secretary, Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, with Mr. T. S. Whittemore in the chair. A letter from the Oak Bay Council was read stating that it was unable to make an appropriation of $250 as a grant to the committee for the year 1943. Requests from the Monterey Parent-Teacher Association and from individuals for the continuation of the playgrounds activities were received.

Mrs. A. J. Bewley announced that a tea was being held on Wednesday afternoon, June 2, at the home of Mrs. F. W. G. Clark, 305 Denison Road, part of the proceeds from which will go to the Oak Bay playgrounds fund. Members said the need for such an activity would be even greater this year with travel restricted and more time and energy needed for shopping. Regret was expressed that municipal funds were not provided this year for the playground.

The committee decided to contact parents and other interested individuals in the district to help finance the playground project in Oak Bay for a few weeks this Summer.

To participate in the activities, children of Willows and Monterey Schools are to fill out a circular provided at school and send it to the secretary at 1149 Oliver Street. Last Summer over 300 children enjoyed these activities at Willows Beach Park. Tumbling, volley ball, softball, football, drama, sketching, folk dancing, clay modelling, story-telling, first aid, and nature hikes. Swimming and diving were taught at the Crystal Garden and the Y.M.C.A. and rugmaking at the home of Mrs. J. F. Erickson.

It was reported donations toward the Oak Bay playgrounds fund are being received by the secretary, Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, 1149 Oliver Street, and when sufficient funds are available a supervisor will be secured. Voluntary assistants for clay modelling, story-telling and other activities as well as chaperones to groups swimming at the Crystal Garden or the Y.M.C.A. were told to communicate with Mrs. A. Gordon.

Housing Survey Takes Form as Replies Noted

Over 10,000 forms are expected today at the National Housing Registry in reply to the housing survey now in progress under direction of L. S. Davis, executive assistant, real property administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Yesterday morning over 4,500 forms were received and checked by volunteer workers who are dividing the answers into two stacks: those who will take in one or more occupants and those who will not. A large number of answers were in the affirmative with the stipulation that there be no children. At the present time the registry has the names of 600 families with children who must be placed.

When all returns are received there will be check made, street by street. Those who have offered accommodation will be approached by the Registry's Volunteer Auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Dorothy Spurr, and the results will be turned over to the registry.

FORMS MUST BE COMPLETED SOON

It is pointed out by the official in charge that it is required by the Dominion Government that the form be completed by Wednesday, under threat of penalty for failure so to do.

While a great many stated that they had an extra bedroom, there were few suites indicated. Only one householder in twenty or thirty applications briefly reviewed said he was making two rooms into a suite to be completed soon. Of those offering bedrooms there were few householders who expressed willingness to provide meals, or permit use of kitchen facilities. Many stated that the room was suitable for one only, and still others specified "one man" or "one woman." Some said they had a spare room, but would have to get furniture first.

The committee, consisting of a number of volunteers, will work all this week and, as long as it takes to complete the work. Then the forms will be sent to Ottawa where further statisticians will compile information from them.

Members of the committee at work yesterday were: Mrs. Laing, Mrs. W. W. McGregr, Miss Jessie Gray, Mrs. Bruce Gorely, Mrs. J. J. Kavanagh, Mrs. E. W. H. Miller and Mrs. Gordon J. Scott. Others who will help during the week are: Mrs. E. W. White, Mrs. Robert Taylor, Mrs. E. B. McEwan, Mrs. H. A. Bassett, Mrs. A. C. Radford, Mrs. A. W. E. Pitkethly, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. G. R. Laird, Mrs. Wark, Mrs. H. B. Turner, Mrs. Walter W. Walsh, Mrs. W. A. MacDonald, Mrs. W. Newman, Mrs. J. E. Moore and Mrs. G. Murphy.

GREAT WAR WORK ON HOME FRONT

L. S. Davis quoted yesterday afternoon, in an interview, an extract from an address by Rt. Hon. Ernest Brown, M.P., Minister of Health in the British Cabinet: "There is one very important achievement—in my opinion, one of the greatest of the war on the home front—and that is, that all these millions of people and munition workers have been housed without building new houses. A number of hostels have been set up to serve factories in isolated areas, but apart from that it has all been done by local householders taking the children and workers into their own homes—a great human service, in which the housewives' kindliness, hospitality and patriotism have been turned into guns, airplanes, tanks and ships. Instead of building, all the labor and materials have been put into the direct offensive war effort."

"If," pointed out Mr. Davis, "we are to solve our own housing problems we can do no better than follow the example set forth by Great Britain." He then explained why the housing survey is being undertaken in Victoria and district: To obtain statistical data regarding housing conditions in this area. There are also two other reasons, to acquaint householders that an emergency exists as far as housing is concerned, and to give every householder an opportunity to assist in this vital wartime job of housing persons who must live in this area.

Housing survey forms have been delivered to all households in Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich, said Mr. Davis.

I.O.D.E. Opens National Convention in Edmonton

EDMONTON, May 31 (CP).—Princess Alice, the Countess of Athlone, honorary president of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, in a message to the official opening session of the order's national convention tonight issued a call to the women of Canada to take a hand in furthering plans for better housing in the reconstruction days that lie ahead.

"Deplorable and congested dwelling places—I will not call them homes—are not going to produce the good Christian mothers, and the fine healthy boys and girls who are to carry out our plans for reconstruction.

"This is a question we women must take in hand at once, and we have a perfectly good authority in the parable of the Importunate Widow. Let us follow her example."

SALE OF STAMPS AND CERTIFICATES

The War Savings Committee, I.O.D.E., reported that over $27,496 had been received through the sale by the I.O.D.E. of War Savings Stamps and Certificates during the past year. In presenting her report, Mrs. C. R. Brown, of Toronto, said that this figure represented the minimum of sales, as in a number of cases the I.O.D.E. had not yet been credited with I.O.D.E. folders used.

The distribution of I.O.D.E. folders throughout the provinces had resulted in the novel and varied means of selling the stamps, said Mrs. Brown. The I.O.D.E. stamp hut at Lethbridge, open during most of 1942, had been especially successful. At the request of the National War Service Committee, Ottawa, pictures of the hut with its history and sales figure were sent to Mr. Ilsley, Minister of Finance. Manitoba reported a successful drive in Winnipeg, where some sixty stores had been supplied with 25,000 I.O.D.E. folders, as well as signs and advertising literature provided by the War Finance Committee. Other means used for selling the I.O.D.E. folders of stamps included a canvass of stores and theatres, sponsoring a "Miss Canada" day, pledges of individual members, sale at monthly meetings of the order. Ontario members assisted the National War Finance Committee by selling stamps at stores, theatres and Fall Fairs, while one chapter had pledged itself to a monthly canvass of retail stores for the duration.

The interest in the War Savings Campaign indicated clearly, said Mrs. Brown, that a stamp convener, should be elected in every primary and junior chapter of the I.O.D.E.

WORK AMONG VETERANS

The report of the ex-servicemen's committee, I.O.D.E., presented by Mrs. W. L. Harper, of Halifax, showed an increase in this phase of the order's work, with the extension of activities to include the veterans of this war as well as those of the first Great War.

Much visiting among pensioners receiving the veterans' allowance was reported by Vancouver chapters, while other chapters in British Columbia had been active in visiting hospitals and providing comforts. Saskatchewan chapters had centred their activities around the Last Post collections and sale of poppies, showing a total of $3,087.34 for the year. Ontario's total expenditure of $3,228.16 was spread over 200 chapters. Quebec, said Mrs. Harper, had been very active in the distribution of magazines, books, playing cards and games.

In Nova Scotia a steady increase was seen in the work of the ex-service department of the order, with the return of men from the present war. Many hospitals and recreational centres were regularly visited, and one Halifax chapter reported that it had been making visits to Camp Hill Hospital for the past twenty-five years.

In closing her report, Mrs. Harper stressed to members that all activities of the order connected with Decoration Day, Poppy Day and Remembrance Day were the concern of the ex-servicemen's committee.

I.O.D.E.'S BEVERIDGE PLAN

The endowment fund committee, I.O.D.E., reported a dropping-off in funds collected for the year 1942-43 over those of last year. In presenting her report, Mrs. R. H. Hart, of Winnipeg, said the nine provinces and Yukon Territory had contributed a total of $6,977.86, while last year's total was $7,430.15. Ontario alone showed a substantial increase of $150 over last year's amount. Saskatchewan and Manitoba showed slight increases.

The purposes of the fund, Mrs. Hart outlined as being to provide security for the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. It is the "Beveridge plan" of the order, that will perpetuate it, and establish its work on a sound basis. The objective of the endowment fund is $200,000, of which approximately $80,000 has been collected to date. In some provinces 10 per cent of all chapter earnings go to the fund, while others have an objective of so much for each member. All available money of the fund, Mrs. Hart reminded the members, is invested in Victory Bonds, where it is doing war work for Canada, as well as securing the future of the order.

Interest allotments to the provinces from the fund help build up new chapters, extending the order's work, and adding more workers and contributors to the war effort, Mrs. Hart said.

A special observance and celebration of Founder's Day is planned this year, under the direction of the endowment fund convener, and it was hoped that its wide publicity would bring before the attention of the general public as well as members of the order the vision of its founder, and the aims which will be perpetuated in providing for the future, Mrs. Hart concluded.

TO INCREASE MEMBERSHIP

The report of the organization committee, I.O.D.E., was prefaced by a plea for co-operation of members in the ever-widening responsibilities created by the war. In presenting her report, Mrs. W. C. Hodgson, of Montreal, urged chapters to strengthen their membership programme. The work accomplished during the past year by some 33,000 members, said Mrs. Hodgson, would be greatly extended if the order could reach its objective of 50,000 members.

Report on the membership across Canada included mention of junior chapters, who although they contribute no fees, yet extend the programme of the order. The membership by provinces showed Ontario with a paid-up membership of 14,939; Quebec with a paid-up membership of 3,521; British Columbia with 3,153; Nova Scotia with 2,779; Alberta with 2,362; Saskatchewan with 2,143; New Brunswick with 1,991; Manitoba with 1,553, making a total paid-up membership of 32,441 primary chapter members. In addition there were 1,367 junior members, making a grand total of 33,808 members, distributed among eight provincial, twenty-eight municipal, 825 primary and seventy-three junior chapters.

The report of the child and family welfare committee, as presented by Mrs. F. R. Taylor, revealed a total of $99,839.20 spent in the Dominion on child and family welfare work during the year 1942.

Canadian Women Lead Collections In Salvage Drive

It is the women of Canada who make local salvage campaigns the success they are, say national salvage officials in Ottawa. It is essential that the housewife be told why the salvage is wanted, the kind that is needed, and how it is to be collected, and by getting in touch with the local voluntary scrap depot all these questions can be answered.

In salvaging useful articles and materials, in the prevention of waste, and in leading thrift habits, the Canadian housewife will be found in the forefront.

Fats salvage in the kitchen is the duration job of every housewife, for without waste fats, glyeerine to be made into explosives cannot be produced.

Scrap metals are another urgent need if Canada's factories are to keep humming twenty-four hours a day. Old brass articles of no further value are on all salvage must lists. Even the brass in a worn-out fireplace fender, or the wrought iron or cast iron of old-fashioned metal jardinieres out of style years ago, will help swell the salvage piles.

Old rags have a place in the scheme of things, for they can be used in war factories and airdromes as cleaning rags.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

by Martha Logan

So Meat is Rationed!

But good nutrition is still our greatest challenge

Good nutrition for our families is still the greatest challenge to every homemaker. Shortages, rationing and other food problems complicate, but must not cloud, the basic fact that good food on our table means better health for the home front.

Woman's greatest war work is to see to it that in spite of mounting difficulties, the health of her family will be strengthened by a wise and better use of the foods available, and by following as closely as possible the rules established by Canada's Nutrition Program.

To make the supply of food available for civilians during wartime go farther, follow these guides: Plan meals before buying; buy whatever foods are available in your market; take good care of all food purchased.

Let's take a look at the eight important food groups and see how we can make the most of each food.

MEAT, POULTRY, EGGS AND FISH: All grades of meat have high food value. Cook meat slowly to prevent shrinkage. Broil or roast tender cuts, braise less tender cuts to make them tender and delicious. Keep all fresh and cooked meats in a cold place—fish and poultry, too. Try to use liver, kidney or heart, at least once a week. Keep eggs cool. Use eggs cooked in any way and count these on the weekly quota of at least 3 or 4. Cook eggs slowly, as fast cooking toughens the whites.

MILK AND MILK PRODUCTS: Whole milk, skim, evaporated or buttermilk may be used. Count the milk used to make soups, puddings, breads, gravies as part of the milk you need daily. Use cheese in cooking, serve it on the table. One ounce of cheese may be eaten in place of one glass of milk. Keep milk cool, clean, and covered. Keep cheese closely wrapped in a cool, dry place.

ORANGES, GRAPEFRUIT, TOMATOES: Use citrus fruit, tomatoes or raw cabbage every day. Keep all fruits in a cool clean place. Wash just before using. Do not squeeze fruit juices long before serving.

LEAFY, GREEN OR YELLOW VEGETABLES: Green outer leaves contain more vitamins than inner bleached leaves. Keep vegetables covered in a cool place. Cook vegetables quickly in a small amount of water in a covered container. Do not overcook vegetables. Store cooked vegetables in a covered dish. Use as soon as possible—in a mixed salad, perhaps.

OTHER VEGETABLES, FRUITS: Eat two or more fruits and vegetables each day, one fresh, stewed, baked, canned, serving with cereals, in salads or puddings, and other desserts.

CEREALS AND BREAD: Use Canada Approved bread or whole-grain bread, use whole-grain cereals. Keep in closed containers. Use up dry bread in puddings or stuffings, or as bread crumbs.

BUTTER, AND OTHER FATS: Use butter as a table spread. Use strained, light drippings for cooking fat. Peanut butter, lard, shortening, salad oil, and cream all furnish concentrated energy.

Presents Pupils in Enjoyable Concert

Pianoforte, singing and elocution pupils of Miss Catherine Craig, L.R.S.M., delighted a capacity audience of parents and interested friends at the annual recital held recently in the Victoria Truth Centre. The first half of the programme was given by tearful young beginners who have not yet completed one year of study and, without exception, each one showed a definite understanding of the rhythm and expression of the pieces performed. Five-year-old Carole McClellan was the youngest performer and played three piano solos in a charming manner. More advanced students appeared on the second half of the programme and again the same careful preparation was in evidence. An outstanding performance was given by Bill Graham, who played Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Sharp Minor." Amusing monologues by Audrey Crossman and Barbara Gordon were also loudly applauded. The good diction and clear, sweet voices of Diana Bradley, Doreen Kohut, Jean Webb, Miriam Goodwin and Dorothy Craig were heard to advantage in their vocal selections. These girls also appeared in the role of pianists, in which they proved themselves to be equally efficient. Miss Craig, by request, entertained with two songs, accompanying herself on the piano. She also played duets with Bill Graham and Gladys Baxter.

During the intermission, Mr. Percy Wills, who kindly acted as chairman, presented certificates of the Royal Schools of Music, London, England, to Eric Goodwin, Bill Graham, Marie Vowles and Dorothy Craig, and of the Toronto Conservatory of Music to Jean Wills. Prizes for the "gold star" contest were awarded to Carole McClellan, Diana Bradley, Iris Demers and Myrna Jean MacLean.

On the programme were Edna LeMarquand, Lianne Butler, Joanne Milley, Diana Bradley, Carole McClellan, Myrna Jean MacLean (absent), Doreen Kohut, Shirley Harknett, Hazel Dewar, Joy Gilliam, Audrey Crossman, Lou Pringle, Betty Anderson, Joan Anderson, Norah Murray, Marilyn MacLoud, Bob Pringle, Phyllis Love, Bernice MacLoud, Ann King, Beryl Hancock, Joy Milley, Mona McLean, Jean Wills, Iris Demers, Betty Jean Brown, Miriam Goodwin, Jean Webb, Dorothy Craig, Eric Goodwin, Barbara Gordon, Irene Reid, Gladys Baxter, Bill Graham, Marie Vowles (absent).

The sum of $20 was collected from which a donation will be made to the Children's Milk for Britain Fund.

C.G.I.T. Notes

FIRST BAPTIST

Under the auspices of the C.G.I.T. girls of First Baptist Church a most successful concert was given recently. Rev. G. A. Reynolds welcomed the audience of friends and relatives, and Miss Elsie Holm, president of the group, made an excellent mistress of ceremonies. Taking part in the variety entertainment of songs, recitations and instrumental selections were the following members: Misses Sylvia and Donna Abbott, Gwennyth Phillips, Valerie Leece, Edith and Trudie McGill, Shirley Coles, Ruth Hanington, Betty Holm, Mary Hallberg, Betty Casselman, Thelma and Phyllis Cherry, Rosemary Barber, Gloria Lee, Colleen Ero, Thelma Hanington and Tena Erb. A clever and amusing skit, written by the girls, was greatly enjoyed. The final number introduced the C.G.I.T. choir singing "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" and "A Touch of Texas."

The first of a series of Summer stalls organized by the Ganges Chapter, I.O.D.E., for war work funds, was held last Saturday afternoon on Ganges wharf under the convenership of Mrs. Cecil Springford and Mrs. C. E. Baker. Over $27 was realized by the sale of plants, vegetables and home-cooking.

Junior C.W.L. Holds Membership Tea

The Junior Catholic Women's League held the annual membership tea on Sunday afternoon at the home of Miss Wenonah Scott. Many new members were welcomed into the league by Miss Mary Morry, president, who assisted the hostess in receiving the guests.

The tea table was covered with a Venetian cut-work cloth, and the floral centrepiece, composed of Esther Reid dahlias, pink snapdragons and pink and mauve sweet peas, was the artistic creation of Mrs. W. H. Brown. Pink tapers in silver holders also graced the table. Presiding at the tea urns were Mrs. Blair Reid and Mrs. C. E. Rivers.

Mrs. C. J. Bicknell was general convener, assisted by the following committee: Misses Louise Michaux, Margaret Morry, Nora O'Connell, Mary Comerford, Florence McConnell, Clara Krubinski and Nelda Hilditch.

Miss Wanda Spencer delighted the audience with several piano selections, and vocal solos by Mrs. G. E. Miller were greatly appreciated.

Special guests present included Bishop John C. Cody, Rt. Rev. Msgr. A. G. Baker, V.G., and Rev. Father J. Lauzon, R.C.N.

Miss Alphie Boulet and Miss Paula Behm were at the receipt of custom.

Says Lancaster Finest Bomber In World Today

The Lancaster bomber in use over Europe by the R.C.A.F. and R.A.F. is the finest heavy bomber in the world today, Flying Officer G. A. "Happy" Holmes, D.F.C., said in an address before members of the Gyro Club in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

"The Lancaster, with a crew of seven, can cruise faster, carry a bigger load, and is more manoeuvrable than any other bomber," he declared. "It can take a terrific amount of punishment."

F.O. Holmes, who has made thirty-three operational flights over enemy territory, including five against the Krupp armament works in Essen, gave a detailed account of the training of a member of a bomber crew from the time he lands at a port in England until he joins his squadron, ready for operations, at which time his life completely changes.

"He becomes his own boss. He has a job of work to do, and getting it done is his only worry," he said.

In describing the dangers ever present on night bombing raids, the airman stressed the necessity of eternal vigilance on the part of all crew members from the time they leave the English coast. Isolated gun posts in enemy territory are particularly dangerous because they catch the raiders unawares, and night fighters attack heavily on the way home. "It's not the ones you see, but those you don't that get you," he said.

ESSEN NOT UNBEATABLE

"Essen can be very hot, but it's not unbeatable," he said. "They can turn 150 searchlights on you at 18,000 feet in a few seconds. It is extremely difficult to fly safely if the searchlights get you."

He emphasized the efforts made to prevent indiscriminate bombing, and as an example, pointed to the raid on the Renault works, situated on an island in the Seine River in Paris, where not a single bomb fell on the city.

Having a good time in England is, for the Canadian boys, simply a matter of adjustment, according to F.O. Holmes, and, although some find it difficult, they can enjoy themselves very much if they want to.

"I was there about three months before I realized how hospitable the English are," he declared.

What Today Means

"GEMINI"

If June 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m., from 1:15 to 3:15 p.m., and from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:15 to 9:15 a.m., from 5:15 to 7:15 p.m., and from 9:15 to 11:15 p.m.

From 7:15 to 9:15 a.m. be unusually watchful your temper does not get the better of your good judgment, and you do not say or do anything that is apt to have an irritating effect on anyone. If you pass through this period successfully you should have no difficulty in getting through the rest of the day without quarreling. Good news should more than counterbalance any of a disconcerting nature, and many agreeable surprises seem to be in store for those celebrating their birth anniversary on this date. It might be advisable to refrain from expressing yourself too freely to chance acquaintances, for the most commonplace remarks are liable to be misconstrued. Married and engaged couples and those experiencing the thrills that only genuine love can produce, will do well to remember the tongue can be kind or cruel according to its owner's thoughtfulness or indifference.

If you are a woman and June 1 is your birthday you must never permit yourself to form the habit of agreeing with everything said to you. You are capable of forming your own opinions, so never be afraid to express them. You must hold steadfast to and seek constantly to strengthen the faith you have, for the greater it becomes the less chance there will be of you ever suffering from a sense of confusion or a feeling of despair. Never fear the future for it ought to have an abundance of happiness in store for you. As a trained nurse, dietitian, writer, artist, musician, teacher, singer, professional dancer, actress, interior decorator, broker, lecturer, sales agent, business operator, secretary, stenographer, accountant or through work directly or indirectly connected with your country's war efforts, you may find yourself regarded as an important person with an ever increasing earning power. Through listening to the dictates of your heart your matrimonial choice is apt to be a very happy one.

The child born on June 1 is generally endowed with a magnetic personality that attracts people and results in an increasing degree of popularity as he becomes older. The mental and physical attributes of this youngster should be above the average and give assurance of a future filled with a triumphant number of successes.

If you are a man and June 1 is your natal day you must not cloak a lovable nature under a mask of sternness or by assuming a manner of indifference. You should never be ashamed to display the sentimental side of your disposition. Remember "love begets love" and the more you exhibit the more you will be conscious of possessing. As a skilled mechanic, inventor, engineer, theatrical man, journalist, author, theologian, educator, scientist, soldier, sailor, aviator, manufacturer, financier, contractor, builder, lawyer, doctor, chemist, painter, musician, salesman or agriculturist you should be most successful when it comes to wooing fame and fortune.

FAT FOR SHACKLING

LONDON, May 31 (CP).—A resolution proposing that every British or Allied prisoner of war shackled by the Germans should be paid £1,000 ($4,500) compensation by the German Government after the war will be moved at a forthcoming conference of the British Legion. It stands in the name of Ilford Branch, which urges that provision for the payment should be made in peace terms.

TORTURE OF CRAMMING

LONDON (CP).—General Secretary Ernest Green of the Workers' Educational Association, told a students' conference children must no longer be put through the "torture of crammed examinations." He urged abolition of competitive examinations.

Spring Showing of Local Photographs Starts on June 7

The fourth Spring exhibition of prints by local photographers of the Victoria Photographic Association will take place from June 7 to 12 in Spencer's Art Gallery, it was announced last night by Ken McAllister. The showing will be open to the public.

This organization, which promotes photography as an outlet for artistic expression, has sponsored two successful international salons, composed of prints by outstanding Canadian and American photographers.

Local exhibitors also contribute to salons outside the city, having sent prints to the Seattle salon, to open on June 9. They will also forward pictures for the all-Canadian Stampede Salon, to be shown at the Calgary Stampede from July 8 to 10. Entry forms for the latter are obtainable from Mr. McAllister.

How It Started—

By JEAN NEWTON

PALINDROME

Nothing surprises us less than to find epochal incidents reduced to anecdotes—if it is not how much history is born, it is certainly how lots of it lives forever.

We are good and surprised, however, to discover that one of the greatest dictators of them all dated the climax of his career in language which reads the same forward and backward.

Asked whether he could have invaded England, Napoleon, in what are said to have been among his last words, replied:

"Able was I ere I saw Elba."

What will be Hitler's last words? Will he, too, like Saul of Tarsus, blinded with the blazing sun of Destiny, when he is finally crippled by his maniacal frenzies, become just a bogeyman, perpetuated by a palindrome—an expression the English tongue borrowed from the French, and which is rooted in a Greek word meaning "running back again"?

At the Theatres

Romantic Comedy Now at Dominion

Hollywood actresses not only are beautiful, but in most cases they are resourceful. Take the case of Frances Dee. Frances was wearing a chill afternoon frock of French souffle for a scene in Columbia's "Meet the Stewarts," opening today at the Dominion Theatre, with William Holden co-starred, when the ash of a cigarette burned a hole in the garment. It was impossible to replace the gown, so Frances solved the problem with a few pins and a few stitches, raising the skirt and making the ensemble even more chic. Then, a short sequence was written into the picture explaining the change in the costume.

"Meet the Stewarts" is a romantic comedy dealing with the misadventures of a budget-beset couple of newlyweds. Major supporting players include such well-known comedy character actors as Grant Mitchell, Ann Gillis, Roger Clark, Marjorie Gateson, Anne Revere and Danny Mummert.

ATLAS THEATRE Hollywood often overlooks talent on its very doorstep, as in the case of Myra Kinch, Hollywood girl, who had first to gain fame in Europe before she could get into motion pictures. Recognition of Miss Kinch's ability came with her assignment to a solo-dancer role in Paramount's "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," now showing at the Atlas Theatre.

CADET THEATRE One of the most delightfully entertaining movies of this or any other season is now showing at the Cadet Theatre is Universal's Irene Dunne comedy, "Lady in a Jam." Produced and directed by Gregory La Cava, who is to be remembered for his memorable comedy, "My Man Godfrey," the film keeps the audience chuckling in the opening scenes, laughing in the middle and howling at the end. It's solid and perfect entertainment.

Amusements

On the Screen

Atlas—"The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," starring Gary Cooper and Franchot Tone.

Cadet — Irene Dunne and Ralph Bellamy in "Lady in a Jam."

Capitol—"Happy Go Lucky," starring Mary Martin and Dick Powell.

Dominion — William Holden and Frances Dee in "Meet the Stewarts."

Oak Bay and Plaza—Barbara Stanwyck and Michael O'Shea in "Lady of Burlesque."

Rio—Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney in "Men of Boys Town."

York—Bette Davis and Paul Henreid in "Now, Voyager."

CAPITOL THEATRE Five hit tunes, plus a couple of catchy extras, is the score for Paramount's newest musicomedy, "Happy Go Lucky," which is now showing at the Capitol Theatre in Technicolor glory, with Mary Martin, Dick Powell, Betty Hutton, Eddie Bracken, Rudy Vallee and Sir Lancelot and his Calypso songs. The music, written by Frank Loesser and Jimmy McHugh, is already being sung far and wide. It includes "Happy Go Lucky," "Let's Get Lost," "Murder, He Says," "The Puddy Duddy Watchmaker" and "Sing a Tropical Song."

OAK BAY AND PLAZA THEATRES Gay song and dance, beautiful girls, riotous comedy and an action-packed mystery keynote Hunt Stromberg's extravagant drama, "Lady of Burlesque," which is playing now at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres through United Artists release. Barbara Stanwyck and Michael O'Shea have the romantic leads.

RIO THEATRE "You risked everything to save someone else," Father Flanagan (Spencer Tracy) tells Whitey Marsh (Mickey Rooney) in a dramatic scene from "Men of Boys Town," which is now showing at the Rio Theatre, as a sequel to the memorable "Boys Town." Tracy and Rooney step back into their Academy Award roles in another great story of the famous humanitarian priest's fight for homeless boys.

YORK THEATRE Warner Bros. have changed a scene in order to conserve fires and to avoid wrecking an automobile. Script called for car in which Bette Davis and Paul Henreid ride to plunge over a cliff. Minor accident, which can be filmed on a sound stage, has been substituted to prevent car damage. The picture is now showing at the York Theatre.

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELAHUNTY

The poor Eagles remain cooped up in the basement of the local senior ball loop. They dropped another decision last night at the Caledonia Avenue lot to the pace-setting shipbuilding crew by a margin of ten runs. From the start of the season the birdmen faced a tough proposition, that of trying to locate players to compete against the services and V.M.D. clubs which had no trouble at all picking up material, but lodgemen decided to try to land the pennant, despite the big odds against them at the outset . . . The Eagles need pitchers in the worst way, and until they can find a few good hurlers they are going to find the road to victory tough, and nobody knows it better than the management. There are other spots on the line-up which need strengthening, so on behalf of the squad I am sending out an urgent SOS, for some ball players. Any young fellow who thinks he can make the senior circuit just apply to George Syrotuck at the Eagles Lodge on View Street . . . San Francisco Seals fell far short of the Coast League record for scoring runs in a single game when they trounced the Rainiers, 35-3. The record is thirty-five, hung up by Salt Lake City many years ago. In that game Pete Schneider smacked five homers for an all-time mark which still stands to this day . . . Isabel Jarvis practically spread-eagled the women qualifiers at the Vale course on Sunday. She finished eleven lengths in front of her closest rival, and now she is expected to breeze through match play without a great deal of opposition to retain her club championship. Isabel hits the ball a long way and reminds me of the days when Marjorie Todd Finney was hitting them a "mile" and winning titles at the same time.

GOSSIP FROM THE FAIRWAYS

"He was too steady for me on the long run. After he caught up to me and then took the lead he was tougher than any time during the match. I thought I might overtake him in the closing stages, but just couldn't do it. Anyhow, I was trying all the time, but, as I said before, he was too steady," stated Freddy Basanta in the locker-room at the Gorge Vale Golf Club on Sunday after he had just lost a tough argument to Eph Robinson in the men's final . . . Chatting to Eph for a few seconds after he had won the crown for the second straight year he said: "I guess I was just lucky or something. Basanta played good golf and with a few breaks he probably would be the champion today instead of me" . . . Your scribbler saw some of the match and the boys played good golf; they gave the enthusiastic gallery several thrills from tees to the greens and, after all, that's what makes a championship final interesting . . . The first flight final was also interesting and closely fought all the way. Ernie Brachat managed to win from Ernie Cook in the battle of "the two Ernies", on the eighteenth green, but he had to finish one under par on the last five holes to turn the trick as the high school teacher was out in front at the fifteenth . . . Out at Colwood course play continued in the title event. Alan Macey, Jimmy Simpson, Brian Hunnings and H. G. Baker moved into the semis after close victories. Any of that quartette can win the crown, but at this stage it appears as if Champion Macey has the inside rail. However, anything can happen on a golf course . . . Next Sunday at the Vale the annual Matson Cup event is to be staged and officials are looking forward to a fair-sized entry list, so get your names into Secretary Jim Smart before Friday evening. We want to see all the clubs well represented. Anybody can win this event, for it is thirty-six holes medal play on full handicap.

ODDS AND ENDS

Remember when Henry Armstrong, Los Angeles negro, became a three-timer in world championship boxing records when he defeated Barney Ross, welterweight, in New York? That was five years ago last night. Hammering Hank was featherweight titleholder in 1937 and took the lightweight honors in 1938. He retired in 1940, but right now is staging a sensational ring comeback as a lightweight and hopes, in the near future, to regain the crown he once held . . . Also remember when Lou Gehrig, then only twenty-two, Columbia University's gift to baseball, took over first base for the New York Yankees to start an "iron-man stunt" unequaled in diamond history? Turn back the sport pages eighteen years ago today and you will find the story. In fourteen years with the Yanks, Lou played 2,130 consecutive games. He died in 1941 and his baseball prowess has been immortalized on stage, screen and over the radio . . . Congratulations are in order to Elmer Kreller, popular Army hockey and baseball player, on his wedding last week. The local winger would most likely be playing with Lester Patrick's New York Rangers if he had not enlisted shortly after war broke out . . . Do you know that Dick Moore, twice a British Columbia amateur golf champion, is now living in Chicago? Dick won his first provincial title at the Oak Bay links some time ago and then came through again in Vancouver when he beat long-driving Stan Leonard, who was one of the Dominion's leading amateurs before turning professional . . . Royal Air Force footballers will march out a bunch of new players tomorrow evening at Macdonald Park when they go up against V.M.D. in the first game of a series for the Solarium Trophy, the proceeds from which will be turned over to the Junior League of the Mill Bay institution. Several of the Flyers' regulars of last season have been posted elsewhere.

Betting Records Set at Belmont

Don Bingo Wins Handicap Event—$2,699,153 Bet During Day

By BID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Topping off the biggest betting day in racing history, Don Bingo finally brought Crooner Bing Crosby's stable off the "joke pile" today by scampering home with the fifty-seventh Suburban Handicap at Belmont Park.

Turning in the biggest stake victory ever chalked up by the Binglin Stable of Crosby and Lin Howard, son of Charley (Lucky) Howard, of California, the "galloping gaucho" from the Argentine bounced in three lengths in front of Lou Tufano's Market Wise, 1942 Suburban winner.

Then Market Wise was disqualified, giving the runner-up spot to Attention, who was bought for $55,000 only last Friday by William Helis, Greek-American oil man from New Orleans. Joseph M. Roebling's Lochinvar moved up to third place.

But the big thing to the crowd of 47,083, who turned out for this war relief programme and set three world betting records during the day, came when Don Bingo came winging in all by himself, as the betting favorites—Mrs. Payne Whitney's entry of Devil Diver and Shut Out—were nowhere around, and the second choice, Market Wise, was set back to last.

It gave the Howard-Crosby combination a winner's bankroll of $27,600.

Piloted by Jimmy Renick, the little New York veteran, Don Bingo returned $26.40 for each $2 win ticket in leading the pack throughout the last mile of the mile and a quarter today.

BETTING RECORD ESTABLISHED

When the day's proceedings were over, a world record of $2,699,153 was posted for one day's betting on one race track, erasing the $2,176,071 previous high; another of $206,994 for wagering on a steeplechase was written in the books, and a third of $122,736 for betting on a daily double was marked up. In dropping in $472,261 on the Suburban itself, an all-time New York State high for wagering on a single race also was set.

Lightly weighted under 104 pounds, Don Bingo dashed the mile and a quarter in 2:01 2-5. Market Wise packed the top load of 128.

Just as the field straightened out for home, Market Wise swerved over on Attention. For this he was disqualified and placed last, and his jockey, Wendell Eads, was suspended for the one week remaining of the Belmont meeting and ten additional days.

The same sentence, plus $200 fine, was pinned on Ott Grohs, who brought Louis Mayer's Thumbs Up home eleventh. He was charged with rough riding and with striking Jockey Wayne Wright, aboard Shut Out, with his whip.

Shut Out, last year's Derby winner, wound up ninth in the field of seventeen.

Devil Diver came home fifth, seven and a half lengths back of Don Bingo and was placed fourth through the disqualification. Marriage, the reformed plater, was seventh; Bolingbroke, the son of Equipoise and who broke the North American mile-and-a-half record on this track a year ago, was tenth; Mioland, Charley Howard's one-time ace, was eleventh, and Texas Tommy Heard's Boyoy was a woeful sixteenth.

The biggest beneficiaries of the day, however, were the assorted charities who cut up the profits, which were estimated at $115,000.

Another $135,000 Voted for Ducks

CALGARY, May 31 (CP).—The sum of $135,000 in United States funds has been allocated for the 1943 programme of Ducks, Unlimited, Canadian, by Ducks, Unlimited, Inc., it was announced Friday afternoon at the closing session of the annual meeting of the Canadian organization here. O. Leigh Spencer, retiring president, was in the chair.

It was the largest annual appropriation ever made and will bring to $842,000 the amount to be spent in Canada to develop duck breeding grounds and conserve ducks.

One of the biggest projects in the year's development programme will be undertaken in the South Bantry district south of Bassano which is being financed by a group of Louisiana sportsmen.

In this scheme the waste water of the eastern irrigation district will be utilized to form forts small lakes which it is estimated will grow 100,000 ducks a year.

RACING AT TORONTO

TORONTO, May 31 (CP)—Daily double price of $241.10 featured early events on today's opening card at the Thorncliffe race meeting, being staged this year at Woodbine Park here. High Renown and Cease Fire combined for the plump price, Jockey Hadley (Billy) Woodhouse, of Vancouver, who led the other riders with twelve wins at the Woodbine meeting which closed Saturday, boosted Highzeenown, owned by H. Dixon, home ahead of Trey and Daggers Drawn in the first event, to pay off at $22.60. Cease Fire returned $9.60 for straight tickets.

Last Night's Score
V.M.D. 12, Eagles 2.

Next Game, Tomorrow
6:30—V.M.D. vs. Army, Royal Athletic Park.

Manager George Syrotuck's lowly Eagles, cellar occupants in the Victoria Senior Baseball League race, dropped their sixth straight game last night in the 1943 pennant chase when they suffered a 12-2 drubbing at the hands of the V.M.D., 1942 champions and present league leaders.

Birdmen held the shipyard workers in close check for three frames, and it looked like a ball game in those early innings, with the score 2-2, and then the balloon went up. Bobbles, very costly, came along in the third frame and the builders of "Victory" ships added four markers on a single base knock.

Eagles failed to improve their total for the remainder of the fixture, but the champions, sneaking base hits here and there and gradually finding their stride with the willow, wound up their batting chores with twelve runs and fourteen base hits.

Syrotuck trotted out three brand new chuckers last night, and Ed Davies, former Up-Island twirler, looked the best of the trio. Davies worked for three and two-thirds frames before leaving the hillock with a sore arm. He held the V.M.D. to a pair of singles, but bobbles by his clubmates cost him six runs.

Jack Diamond, another newcomer, took over the hurling duties and stayed until his control left him in the seventh inning. The relief hurler had plenty on the ball, but his trouble was locating the home plate. He gave up eight base hits during his three and two-thirds frames.

"Major" Bowes, a southpaw flinger with a lazy curve ball, was the third pitcher used by the Eagles in an attempt to stop the champions. The "major" was nicked for four hits and had a like number of runs chalked up against him.

CY SHILLITO GOES DISTANCE FOR V.M.D.

Cy Shillito went the distance for the V.M.D. and limited the birdmen to eight scattered base hits. Birdmen hit Shillito's offerings hard, but his clubmates backed him up beautifully. He fanned three.

Shipyard workers nicked the three Eagles' hurlers for fourteen safeties, with "Babe" Work and Laurel Harney hitting at .500.

"Major" Bowes led the birdmen with two for two.

Tomorrow evening the Army will return to the Caledonia Avenue ball yard to oppose the league leaders. Soldiers will probably have Nick Metz, Don Metz and Julian Sawshuk in their line-up with Gerry Whitney, ace right-hander, as the probable hurling choice.

Mize's Circuit Highlights Game

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31 (AP)—Lieut. Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane's Great Lakes Bluejackets were too much yesterday for the Indianapolis Indians, now in first place in the American Association. The score of the exhibition tilt: Great Lakes 11, Indianapolis 2.

The navy line-up is a star-studded aggregation of erstwhile big league stars, who now have eight victories under their belts.

In the ninth Glenn Fletcher of the Indians served a home-run ball to Johnny Mize, ex-New York Giant, with the bases full.

Racing Trainer Dies

WINNIPEG, May 31 (CP)—Prominent Western race horse trainer, Robert Bowman, sixty-six, died here yesterday.

Bowman, who came to the West from Halifax forty years ago, handled the Lee Williams' Edmonton stable, and also trained for many private owners in the West. He had been with Williams' stable for eighteen years.

He first worked on an Alberta ranch, then took up the training of harness horses, and sometime later entered the running horse field.

Funeral service and burial will be in Edmonton next Tuesday.

Cooper Pitches One-Hit Fixture Against Dodgers

Cards' Ace Twirler in Fine Form—Yankees Divide Holiday Games

(By The Associated Press)

Brooklyn Dodgers still lead the National League—by virtue of a 1-0 decision in a stirring nightcap of a double-header against St. Louis yesterday, after the Cardinals had smothered the Eastern club, 7-0, on Mort Cooper's one-hit pitching in the opener before 25,864, largest crowd of the season in Sportsman's Park.

Pat Freddy Fitzsimmons received credit for the Brooks' triumph, although rookie Herry Brecheen, of St. Louis, allowed only four hits.

Walker opened the Dodgers' productive eighth with a double, went to third on a wild pitch and charged home on Moore's pinch sacrifice, beating the throw.

Philadelphia walloped the Cubs, 10-4, but the Chicago team then turned on the Phillies and whipped them, 8-2, before a crowd of 22,256.

Using the so-called dead ball, both teams hammered out a total of forty-four hits for the afternoon, including two homers by Bill Nicholson and others by Danny Litwhiler, Babe Dahlgren and Dan Murtaugh. Nicholson made his third and fourth homers in two days and drove in six of the Cubs' total of twelve runs.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Chicago White Sox, who knocked Washington Senators out of the American League lead yesterday, tried to trap New York Yankees the same way today before 31,892 fans at Yankee Stadium.

But after winning the opener, 10-8, with a five-run splurge in the tenth inning, the Sox were overwhelmed, 10-4, in the second game and the Yankees continued in first place. Joe Kuhl got two homers for Chicago.

Both games were slugging sessions, but the Yankees really cut loose in the nightcap, when they made eighteen hits, including a grand slam homer by Joe Gordon and another by Charley (King Kong) Keller with two on. Bill Dickey hit a triple, a double and three singles in five times at bat.

Coming back to win the second game, 6-3, after Detroit had taken the first, 7-0, the Athletics divided a holiday double-header with the Tigers before 23,633 at Shibe Park.

The Tigers won the first game when Southpaw Hal Newhouser permitted only two hits. Newhouser also fanned five to raise his season's total of strikeouts to forty-four.

In the second game Roger Wolff scattered eight Tiger safeties to win his fifth victory.

Washington and Cleveland split a twin bill, the Senators taking the first game, 8-7, while the Indians took the nightcap, 7-6, in thirteen innings.

Stan Spence, singled, scoring Johnny Sullivan in the eight inning of the first game to give Washington the winning run.

In the second game Center pitched the last seven innings for Cleveland and gave up one hit.

Boston Red Sox took two overtime games from St. Louis Browns, 2-1 in thirteen innings and 7-6 in ten, to move into the American League's sixth berth before a holiday crowd of 15,858.

The opener was a pitching duel between Johnny Niggeling and Tex Hughson until the Browns' right-hander tired after the tenth inning and was replaced by George Caster. The latter kept the Sockers under control until the thirteenth when Boston scored.

A wild throw to the plate by Shortstop Floyd Baker enabled Lupien to score the winning Boston run in the second game.

TOAST and TEA

By J. V. McAREE

WHETHER animals have reasoning powers is the subject of a very old and interminable argument to which we have nothing to contribute. But perhaps an oblique light might be thrown on the mystery if we say that dumb animals, and in this case we are thinking of dogs, lack imagination. For instance, if you show a dog a photograph of a dog or of its own master, you produce no response. What the dog sees is simply a piece of paper. Similarly if a dog sees himself in a mirror he has no illusion that it is a dog he sees. To convince him, it is necessary that other senses, in addition to the visual one, should give their testimony. When our own dog listens to the radio he is under no illusion; he has no idea that he is hearing human voices; he is simply hearing certain noises that come out of a box. The only sounds he responds to are those of rapping or whistling, which are the same over the radio as at the back door.

Couple Unchanged

There has been little or no recent change in the condition of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Thomas, East Saanich Road, Sidney, who were badly crushed several nights ago when their motor car left the road at Glanford and Lessale Avenues. Although still critically ill at St. Joseph's Hospital, both patients now appear to have a fighting chance of recovery.

JOHANNESBURG (CP). — A South African Army doctor discovered an "efficient, cheap and simple" method of making plaster of paris casts for any type of surgical work. They cost one-fifteenth the price of the old types.

No Hitter For Pippen

Pitches Great Game for Oaks

(By The Associated Press)

Henry (Cotton) Pippen, an ex-Sacramento Solon, threw a no-hit, no-run game at his former mates in the seven-inning nightcap of a Pacific Coast League double-header here, Oakland Acorns winning, 10-0. Not a Solon reached first base. Oakland also captured the first game, [illegible] game of seven-game series.

San Diego Padres pounded out a twin bill win over the Stars, 4-2 and 8-2. The double win gave San Diego the series, six games to three.

The league-leading Los Angeles Angels and the Second Division Portland Beavers split a double-header, the Beavers taking the opener, 7-6, and the Angels annexing the seven-inning nightcap, 3-2.

Seattle Rainiers defeated San Francisco Seals, 7-5, in the first game of their double-header and finished in a 2-2 deadlock when the second contest was halted by a 5:30 p.m. time limit agreement. The second game ended in the last half of the tenth with one out against the Seals.

Anglers Will Stage Derby

Rowboat Event to Be Held June 27

When the Victoria Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association held its annual meeting in March, it was the unanimous feeling of all members that the club should hold a derby this year. As the oil controller will not allow the owner of a launch to use his gas for fishing derbys or competitions, the meeting decided to try a rowboat derby.

The directors of the association met in the offices of Hubert Lethaby, president, and arranged for the rowboat derby to make its debut on Sunday, June 27. The starting point is anywhere in Saanich Arm, the finishing points Stacey's or McKenzie Bay. Members may start fishing any time of the morning they wish, but the closing time for both weighing-in stations is 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Rowboats may be towed to fishing grounds, but they must not be towed to weighing-in stations if the entrant has a fish to weigh in. For the protection of all entrants, they are warned that they must not fish from their launches if entered in the derby, the tackle committee will not recognize their fish if caught from a power launch and, of course, there is the Government ruling that gas must not be used for fishing derbys. One rod only per person per boat may be used and all those fishing in the derby must be paid-up members if they wish to compete for the prizes.

The entrance fee for the competition is to be fifty cents and the number and value of the prizes will be published in a few days. The committee are planning on several fine prizes and it is hoped that all the old members and many new ones will join in the derby. The directors prepared a circular letter covering the derby to be sent to all last year's members calling their attention that the 1943 membership cards are now on sale at all sporting goods stores and that new fishermen will be welcomed to the fraternity.

Present at the meeting were H. Lethaby, president; Doc Smith, Captain Bell, A. Ledson, C. Kinlock, A. Provan, R. Ritchie, directors; Dr. G. Grant, vice-president; and Al Oakley, secretary.

Robinson Wins Golf At the Vale

Defeats Basanta In Championship

Catching up to his opponent on the twenty-first green and then moving into the lead on the next hole, Eph Robinson stroked his way to his second straight championship [illegible] Sunday afternoon by edging out Freddy Basanta, tournament medalist, after one of the best finals staged at the layout in many years. Robinson, who hails from Nanaimo, won the decision, 2 and 1, as an interested gallery looked on. It was close all the way to the thirty-fourth, where the titleholder closed out the match.

Ernie Brachat won the first flight honors by coming from behind to beat Ernie Cook, two up, after another nip-and-tuck battle. The Victoria High School teacher was leading at the fifteenth green by a single hole, but Brachat came back strongly, squared the match on the sixteenth, took the lead on the next green and then won the last hole to make victory secure. It was the third year in succession that Brachat has captured the first flight. He had his hands full all the way, as Cook ran down some long putts for wins and appeared to have the match won, but he missed a short putt on the fifteenth. From then on Brachat went to work and closed the gate.

Following the finals and the various competitions, Dave Hurdle presented the trophies and other awards to the list of winners. Brachat also received the Maynard Cup during the afternoon, a piece of silverware which he has lifted two consecutive years, being the first player at the club to perform the trick. A. McMillan won the approaching event by sinking one of his shots, while Frank Brawn, J. Goodman, Ian Wallace and Joe Delahunty tied for first place in the putting competition.

ISABEL JARVIS HEADS FIELD

Qualifying round in the women's title event was run off on Sunday and Isabel Jarvis topped the field with a card of 91, eleven strokes in front of the runner-up, Mrs. C. Hulke. Miss Jarvis is the defending champion and is a strong favorite to repeat as she is hitting the ball well from tee to green. Irene Austin is third on the list and then came Mrs. Fanthorpe with 109 and Mrs. D. Fanthorpe was right behind her with 110. Others to qualify were: Miss Howard, Miss Grubb, Mrs. Cunningham, Miss Ryles, Mrs. Swan and Mrs. Richardo. Mrs. Jimmy Cunningham also won the putting competition.

Robinson started off as if he meant business and was three up at the fifth hole, but back came Basanta to win the sixth and seventh to leave himself only one down. The champion was still clinging to the same lead as the pair rounded into the back stretch in the morning. Freddy squared the match at the eleventh and then moved out in front by winning the fifteenth and eighteenth holes to be two up at lunch time.

MATCH IS SQUARED AGAIN

After halving the nineteenth, Robinson took the twentieth and twenty-first holes with five to square it up again. From then on Robinson, who was playing just as steady as ever, forged ahead by capturing the twenty-second with a three. They halved the next two and then the titleholder got another three on the twenty-fifth to put him two up, a lead he enjoyed at the three-quarter mark. Basanta fought back hard and sliced his opponent's lead by winning the thirty-second by canning a long putt, but Robinson won it back at the next green and then took the thirty-fourth and that was the end of the match.

Bunny Thomson refereed the morning round and Al Oakley the afternoon round.

Sport Shorts From Britain

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 31 (CP)—While Henry Cotton watched, helpless in his sick bed, fire destroyed the Ashbridge Golf Club where the former British Open champion is professional. It was the fifth fire in the village district within a week and police and Home Guard redoubled efforts to trace suspected arsonists.

Invalided recently from the Royal Air Force, Cotton lives in a house only 400 yards from the $34,000 clubhouse. He said the blaze started in the thatched roof and the fire brigade ran short of water and were able to save only one wing. No one was injured.

Sam Dorman, Cotton's assistant who was a professional in Poland before the war, lost all his possessions. "He lost everything in Poland and now he has had the same bad luck again," Cotton said.

Several members lost clubs and balls and Cotton three sets of clubs, including ones with which he played important matches. "All the stock in the shop was burned," Cotton said. "How we are going to replace the stuff I don't know. The balls are the most difficult problem." (New golf balls are a rarity in Britain these days.)

George Henry Stratton, seventy-nine, who taught the King in the fine arts of horseback riding, died at Heatham, Norfolk. He was riding master to King George V and spent more than fifty years in the service of the Royal Family at Sandringham.

War damage from enemy action at Kennington Oval, home of the Surrey County Cricket Club, was estimated to be at least $45,000, exclusive of decorations and other repairs necessary to prepare the ground for the game. The disclosure came at the annual meeting when Capt. F. R. Brown, a Test cricketer now prisoner of war in Italy, was elected a member of the committee.

Rugby followers got a lift when it was announced that Lieut. Wilfred Wooller, Welsh Rugby international missing fourteen months following the fall of Java, is a prisoner of war in Japan.

Revelation came in a message broadcast by Wooller from Tokio and picked up in New Zealand. It was relayed to his wife, Lady Gillian Wooller, daughter of the Earl of Plymouth, at St. Fagan's Castle, near Cardiff.

First "capped" when he was seventeen, Wooller played eighteen times for Wales.

P.O. John Cheley, of Ottawa and Toronto, former Ottawa junior tennis champion and one-time Canadian runner-up, is a Beaufort pilot these days. One of the most promising Dominion players of his time, John wasn't long in looking around for a suitable court after arriving in England.

50,000 at Race Meet in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 31 (AP).—Step Back, black gelding from the barn of W. A. Osborne, won the 100,000 pesos handicap of the Americas by two and one-half lengths.

The race attracted more than 50,000 spectators, said to be the largest throng ever to see a sports event in Mexico.

Step Back covered the mile and a quarter in 2:18 4-5, eight and four-fifths seconds slower than the track record. He paid 69½ pesos for five, or $27.80 for $2. William Baker's Stinging Ben was second while the favored Airmaster was third.

Osborne, whose home is in Los Angeles, collected about $15,000.

EXTRA PEP FOR GUNNERS

LONDON (CP).—Anti-aircraft gunners on Britain's coastal front line where "fringe target" attacks may occur at any time have to be more than just normally fit. Ordinary physical training isn't good enough, so they have a ten-minute pep P.T. designed to quicken the brain and make it work fast.

Foot comfort is of vital importance to the war worker. The true worth of a work boot is measured in terms of quality, comfort and long life. These famous Leckie Skookum and Columbia Work Boots are built to stand the gaff—but they're made for comfort too! The next time you're buying work boots, ask for Leckie's.

Officials Elected

Victoria Amateur Swimming Club held its annual meeting at the Crystal Garden recently. Election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary president, Mr. Hibberson; president, Mr. Mathews; vice-president, P.O. N. Briers; secretary, Miss Tupman; treasurer, Mrs. McNeill; coaches, Miss N. Tupman and P.O. N. Breward; boys' captain, Ken Hurn; girls' captain, Jean Dyer; life-saving coach, Mr. Stanyon; diving coach, Mrs. Hibberson; social committee, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. McNeill and Mrs. Jubb.

Members chosen for the executive committee were Mrs. Jubb, Miss S. Fliewood, P.O. Breward and Darrell Nute.

In appreciation of his efforts as secretary of the school gala, W. T. Barrett was voted an honorary life membership in the V.A.S.C.

EXPEDITION TO AFRICA

LONDON (CP).—If British railway trains sometimes are late in, it is because war traffic comes first. The Allied movement to North Africa, for instance, involved the moving to ports nearly 200,000 men, more than 20,000 vehicles and 240,000 tons of stores.

IT IS these "wheels" for war workers, soldiers of industry, that you can help make go 'round.

If you have an unused "wheel" get it out and offer it for sale, through a C.C.M. dealer, so that some war worker can buy it and thus solve his transportation problem.

C.C.M. make most of the "wheels" used in Canada but just now we are very busy making munitions, and consequently very few "wheels"—that is why "wheels" are scarce. It is why we ask you to help "make the wheels go 'round" by offering for sale any unused "wheel" you may have.

Soon after victory we will again be making plenty of C.C.M. "wheels" resplendent with chrome plating, color enamel, gold and fancy striping. Till then, you can help us "make the wheels go 'round" by releasing any inactive bicycle in your household and getting it into active service by selling it to your C.C.M. dealer who will see that a war worker or other qualified person gets it.

In order that C.C.M. bicycles may be kept in good repair, C.C.M. are maintaining the best possible service on genuine C.C.M. parts and safety accessories by apportioning their available stocks to the 2,300 C.C.M. dealers across Canada. Every dealer gets his full quota in proportion to the parts available.

Bicycle Purchase Application forms may be filled in at any bicycle dealer's store.

A.R.P. Practice Proves Worth of New Block Plan

Used Efficiently In Victoria West

The block system of A.R.P. control received its final test here during the district practice in Victoria West last night and proved to be much faster than the system of sectors now used in the other ten districts of the city, according to Inspector [illegible] Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, chief warden.

The scheme last night was the best since the A.R.P. was started here, Inspector Bishop said. The test went smoothly and with speed and accuracy.

Dr. R. M. Petrie and Prof. E. J. Rowbotham, who conducted a series of incidents planned by graduates of the A.R.P. training courses, were exceptionally pleased with the way the instructors and their work. Condition were as realistic as possible and the casualties were diagnosed, treated and disposed of without mistakes being made.

TEST COMPLETED WITHIN HOUR

Nine incidents occurred throughout the district between 8.05 and 8.28 p.m., involving sixteen casualties, and the services of auxiliary, fire and police squads. St. John Ambulance Brigade, Women's Ambulance Corps and Canadian Red Cross Corps. At 8.55 p.m. all casualties had been treated in the first aid post, Victoria West School, directed by Dr. W. D. Higgs and Mrs. J. Bampton, and services had been discharged. Mrs. A. Hall had charge of the gas decontamination centre on Raynor Avenue.

Under the block system a warden is posted to every block in the area and services operate from the district control room. In the control room last night were F. Jones, district warden, H. Youson, deputy, and the heads of services. They communicated with teams by means of messengers and at the conclusion of the test all [illegible] submitted their reports.

Those witnessing the test were Fire Chief Alex. Munroe, Inspector Walter Calwell of the city police, and members of the Sidney A.R.P. organization led by P. J. Baker, chairman of the civilian protection committee. They were particularly impressed with first aid and decontamination work and invited local A.R.P. squads to give a demonstration at Sidney on June 14.

More Building Material Soon Says Realtor

"The Government at Ottawa is giving the problem of housing in Victoria every consideration, and undoubtedly within a short time there will be considerably more material released for building low-cost houses," Lt.-Col. F. Brooke Stephenson stated yesterday on his return from a month's visit to the East where he discussed [illegible] for a [illegible] and builders of the city are sponsoring.

Col. Stephenson said it was impossible to divulge more at the present time but that the authorities at Ottawa were cognizant of Victoria's needs and were planning constructively. He found business extremely good in the East. "The people have money and they are spending it," he said.

The colonel, who commands the 3rd Canadian Scottish, noticed particularly that reserve units in the East could get all the men they needed at all and more. The men in the eastern provinces seemed much more anxious to get into the reserve army than in the west, he said.

Though they haven't the men we have yet they have no difficulty in filling all their needs."

War industries were running full time and turning out an amazing amount of goods, said Col. Stephenson, and there was far more activity than last year.

While pickers will receive two and one-quarter cents per pound for loganberries he said that was the total price received by growers for the berries a few years ago.

Believed Held In Japanese Prison Camp

According to word from the war organization of the British Red Cross and the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, the former British army camp at Changi, Singapore Island, is now a Japanese prison camp in which, among others believed to be prisoners there, is Miss Marion Aitken, whose brother-in-law, Capt. H. W. Chandler, resides at 1510 Despard Avenue, Victoria.

Once admirably equipped with barracks for single men, and flats for married troops, and noted throughout the East for its cleanliness under British control, the camp is eighteen miles distant from Singapore and within sight of Miss Aitken's old home.

The information to Captain Chandler states that nothing is known of the conditions in the internment camp, and there is no definite report of Miss Aitken's fate, other than that she is believed to be a prisoner at Changi.

Reviews Blackout Instructions Here

For the benefit of new residents in Victoria, Inspector A. H. Bishop, A.R.P. controller, reviewed existing blackout instructions yesterday.

At the siren signal for a precautionary blackout, a continuous and steady note of five minutes duration, all outside lights must be extinguished and buildings must show no light. Vehicles may proceed at fifteen miles per hour providing the headlights are masked according to regulations.

On the imminent danger siren, sounding a warning of five varying notes of one minutes duration, all lights of any kind must be extinguished and vehicles must stop, with the exception of official cars with special permits.

The return of precautionary conditions is marked by a steam siren note of three minutes duration and the final all clear will be announced in the press and radio, but not by sirens.

In special blackout warning that an imminent danger signal may not always be preceded by a preparatory warning. He also suggested that motorists carry headlight covers at all times. Residents on the streets are expected to go to their homes after the preparatory signal is sounded, he said, and to take cover immediately on hearing the imminent danger warning.

Canning Coupons Valid Today

With the first of the special canning coupons becoming valid today and fresh fruit beginning to appear on the market, housewives can now begin to put up fruit.

Rhubarb has been on the market for some time and gooseberries have been on sale for the past two weeks, though not in any great quantity. There are also some Canadian cherries being sold, but most of the present local supply will begin to arrive next week and will probably sell at far less price.

While farmers at Saanich report a smaller than usual crop of gooseberries, merchants hope to have enough to meet the demand, which they expect will increase since two of the canning coupons become valid today. One [illegible] later. Purchasers of the [illegible] can [illegible] berries, but [illegible] will be on the market for another two weeks.

A. B. Ford, of the local rationing board, said that most of the canning cards had been sent out and that distribution would be completed within the next few days.

We are doing our utmost to get the canning coupons to as many as possible and everyone should be supplied by the end of the week," he said.

Sixty-Three-Year-Old Navy Man Saved Canadian Corvette

C.E.R.A. John Griffiths Kept Pump Working When Vessel in Trouble

AT A NORTHERN IRELAND PORT, May 31 (CP).—The Royal Canadian Navy might have one less corvette today if it hadn't been for a sixty-three-year-old navy man now based at Prince Rupert, B.C.

Any questions regarding how a sixty-three-year-old could join the navy in the first place are answered vaguely by the people who know Chief Engine-Room Artificer John Griffiths, but there is nothing vague about their accounts of the time H.M.C.S. Brandon started shipping water through a jammed sea-cock in an easterly gale and then found her pumps wouldn't work.

Reason for the failure of the pumps was a simple one—there had been some waste left in the bilge when the corvette was commissioned and when pumping operations began this waste jammed in the intakes. The lives of more than sixty men were at stake in that contest between corvette and storm, and the storm might have won if the corvette hadn't had this tiny C.E.R.A., John Griffiths.

KEPT ONE PUMP WORKING WHOLE TIME

"Somehow, this fellow kept one pump working all the time, enough to keep even with the water coming in," Lieut.-Cmdr. John Littler, the Brandon's skipper, said. "He and his men had to work in water twelve hours to do it with seas so nigh water was pouring in through the ventilators and the doors, but he brought us through."

While the corvette's officers, Lieut. Tiny Herman, Ottawa; Lieut. Herb MacArthur, Vancouver; Lieut. Stan Kerr, Toronto; Sub-Lieut. Gordon Briggs, Winnipeg and Calgary, and Sub-Lieut. Don Best, Winnipeg, and men struggled to hold the nose of the corvette into the battering seas, Griffiths and his engine-room crew worked calmly with the pumps.

STOKER TELLS OF DIFFICULT BATTLE

Stoker Petty Officer Bob Semple of Picton, Ont., a leading stoker then, told how he and six other stokers, three engine room artificers, three stoker petty officers and three leading stokers battled with the water as it rose steadily to the main bearings.

Semple, who is twenty-five and served nine years at sea before he joined the navy in 1940, agreed with his officers that Griffiths had been mainly responsible for saving the ship.

"It was a matter of coolness and experience with him," he said. "Where others of us would have been tempted to try equally to get all three pumps working at once, Griffiths figured it out that we could keep pace with the water by concentrating on one pump at a time using only spares on the others, and that's what we did. And that's what kept the ship afloat until we got rid of all the waste, got all three pumps working, and beat the storm."

Swedish Ship Sunk by Nazis

MIAMI, Fla., May 31 (CP).—A Nazi submarine torpedoed the Swedish motor ship Industria in the South Atlantic on March 25 and took aboard as prisoners the three ranking officers of the neutral vessel, survivors reported here today.

Crew members who described the attack said Sweden had protested to Berlin against the violation of her neutrality.

They said the ship was running with navigation lights only and did not have the Swedish flag illuminated at the time a single torpedo struck, without warning, in the darkness of early morning.

Superhuman Effort Lifts Great Battleship From Ocean

A couple of sailors scrape barnacles and mud from the main deck of the United States battleship Oklahoma shortly after it was raised at Pearl Harbor. She has been under water ever since she capsized after being hit in the Japanese sneak attack on December 7, 1941. Naval experts say the giant battlewagon will leave the harbor under her own power. This is an official United States Navy photograph.

But Second Mate Eric Olander, of Brooklyn, N.Y., declared the Germans knew full well the nationality of the ship by the time they ordered the officers to board the submarine.

Taken prisoner were Capt. Eric Lorenzon, of Gothenburg, Sweden, Chief Mate Fritzof Olsson, of Hernesund, Sweden, and Chief Engineer Arthur Jacobsen, of Gothenburg.

Two Survivors Tell of Sinking of Little Cargo-Ship by Nazi U-Boat

MONCTON, N.B., May 31 (CP).—The submarine sinking of the Canadian barquentine Angelus was disclosed here Sunday by two survivors who spent eight perilous days in a small lifeboat and saw the other eight seamen of the ten-man crew perish after the little vessel was shelled to the bottom of the South Atlantic.

A German submarine pounded the Angelus under the surface after intercepting her as she headed north for Halifax from the West Indies with a cargo of molasses.

Available shipping records do not list a Canadian registered Angelus. The two survivors at Moncton said she was Canadian, but did not name her home port. Shipping circles at Halifax could not identify the vessel.

One survivor was Mate Arthur Holmans, a Newfoundlander, whose son, Alexander (Sandy), twenty, died in his arms. Holmans, who has been on two shelled ships and one torpedoed vessel, said on his arrival here, "I can't give up now. We've got to finish this job."

The other survivor was Walter Boudreau, Moncton.

LIFEBOAT OVERTURNS FOUR TIMES

The lifeboat overturned four times during gales. Captain Edward Jensen, Lunenburg, N.S., was lost in the second capsizing. Exhaustion and exposure took the other seven lives.

Sighted by a United States patrol plane, the two survivors were picked up by a United States warship and landed at a United States port on the Atlantic Coast.

"Dawn was breaking on the twenty-first day of the voyage when my son, Sandy, who was at the wheel, called to me that he had seen an object some distance ahead," Mate Holmans said. "I looked forward and made out the outline of a submarine. Then I informed the captain and the order was given to lower the lifeboat. Meanwhile, the submarine came alongside and the German skipper ordered all hands to get into the lifeboat and come alongside the submarine, which we did.

"Our skipper went aboard the submarine while the crew of the U-boat kept machine guns trained on our lifeboat.

OFFERED TIME TO GET PROVISIONS

Captain Jensen was questioned by the U-boat commander regarding cargo and destination, and told that he and his crew would be allowed twenty-five minutes to return to their boat for provisions and equipment, after which the ship would be sunk.

Captain Jensen declined the offer, as the necessary equipment had been placed in the lifeboat before it was launched.

Holmans said about twenty rounds were fired into the ship from the U-boat's deck guns before the vessel rolled over and sank.

A sail was raised on the lifeboat and a course set for the American coast. Near the end of the fourth day, after the craft had traveled about 200 miles, a heavy gale blew up and raged throughout the night. For a time the seamen managed to keep their "tiny boat headed into the waves."

Then a giant wave overturned the lifeboat. The seamen righted the craft. Four times during the long night the boat capsized. The last time it was only after an exhausting struggle that the weary men were able to right the boat and assist companions into it.

Shortly after, one of the men, a Newfoundlander, succumbed to exposure and exhaustion. The deaths of six more followed in rapid succession. All were buried at sea when the storm abated at daylight.

Two Fishermen of Nanaimo Missing

NANAIMO, May 31—Two Nanaimo fishermen are missing, according to a report made to police today by Pete Sandnes. He states that a month ago John Ottern and Jack Johnston left in the latter's fishing boat for Howe Sound, where they intended to fish for dogfish. They were to have returned here two weeks ago. Ottern left his own boat tied up here, saying he intended to commence fishing on the Fraser on June 1, having purchased two new nets for this season. Police are checking on the missing men.

Planes Sink Five U-Boats In Ten Days

Possibly Several More "Kills" Also Scored

LONDON, May 31 (CP).—Documenting official statements that the United Nations are meeting with mounting success in their war on the submarine, the Air Ministry announced Sunday the destruction of at least five U-boats in ten days by giant aircraft of the Coastal Command engaged in dawn patrols of the Atlantic.

That five U-boats went down was clearly shown by the bobbing heads of at least 105 German sailors seen in the water around the stricken raiders, the communique said, while patches of oil and wreckage made it probable that several other kills had been scored.

The Admiralty announced that four German trawlers were set afire, one of them blowing up and another left in sinking condition, and that two motor gunboats were set aflame in a forty-five-minute engagement with light British naval forces off Dunkerque Saturday morning.

One British craft was lost, that of the commander, Lieut. George D. K. Richards, but all the German forces were driven off and the enemy vessels were last seen firing wildly on one another, the communique said.

The German High Command in its communique, recorded by The Associated Press from a Berlin broadcast, made the unconfirmed claim that fifteen Allied ships, totaling 90,000 tons, had been sunk in Northern and Southern Atlantic convoy attacks.

Two of the five successful attacks on submarines were made by heavy bombers, the Air Ministry said. Depth charges from a bomber straddled one U-boat west of Iceland. It went down stern first, leaving between thirty and forty men struggling in the water.

Some thirty crew members were seen in the water after another went down from an air attack eight miles south of Iceland.

"It was the biggest U-boat I ever saw," said Pilot Flying Officer Robert L. Cowey.

FRESH WATER FROM SALT

LONDON (CP). — Scientists have succeeded in a device from which wrecked seamen can distill sea water into fresh water in lifeboats. Three types will be fitted into lifeboats as ships come into British ports.

U.S. Coast Guard Officers Inspect V.I. Power Boats

Units of the Vancouver Island Power Boat Squadrons were inspected at their bases Sunday by United States Coast Guard officers and by officials of the United States Coast Guard Reserve.

Headed by Lieut. Commander Allan Winbeck, U.S.C.G., and Lieut. F. L. Morris, U.S.C.G.R., directors, Coast Guard Auxiliary, Thirteenth Naval District, Seattle, the group of ten officials arrived in Cadboro Bay at 10 a.m. aboard a coast guard auxiliary vessel.

Representing branches of the Canadian armed forces interested in the facilities provided by the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary and the power boat squadrons were Commander H. W. S. Soulsby, R.C.N.; Lieut. H. B. Scully, R.C.N.V.R. Group Captain S. Pope, R.A.F.; Wing Commander Hollingum, R.C.A.F. air-sea rescue division; Flt. Lieut. Watson, R.C.A.F.; F.O. W. Pfeffer, R.C.A.F.

Welcomed by officials of the Vancouver Island Power Boat Squadrons headed by R. Halls, commander, the coast guard party addressed a general meeting of squadron members at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club premises. The functions and the operation of the Coast Guard Auxiliary was explained in some detail to the local power boat squadron members.

After being shown through the power boat squadron headquarters and control room at 921 Gordon Street, the official party proceeded to Squadron No. 6 base at Canoe Cove, where vessels of that squadron were inspected at their moorings.

The purpose of the visit was to establish liaison between the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary and the Vancouver Island Power Boat Squadrons and to discuss operational problems affecting the services made available to the armed forces by the two auxiliary organizations.

Canadians Right in Thick of Air War on Nazi Submarines

Flt. Sgt. Tommy Main, of Victoria, in One Demon That Spotted and Bombed a Prowler

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, May 31 (CP).—Canadians are right in the thick of the aerial war against Nazi submarines and the effort is getting better and better. That is official, right from Coastal Command. The announcement that February was one of the best months the command has known for the number of submarines attacked and the number believed destroyed came at a time when Canadians flying in the Demon Squadron were chalking up victories of their own.

Flying Officer Bev Pritchard, a gangling, piano-playing pilot from Chatham, Ont., got one.

The Demons are assigned to patrols over designated stretches of sea, those considered most likely to hold Nazi undersea boats. Mostly they hunt in the Bay of Biscay and on these lonely patrols the hope of sighting a submarine fills every minute of the operation.

With Pritchard were F.O. Ron Finlayson, navigator from Vernon; Flt. Sgt. Al Johnston, of Birds Hill, Man.; and Flt. Sgt. Tommy Main, of Victoria.

"CERTAINLY SHOOK HIM UP A BIT"

"If we didn't get him we certainly shook him up a bit," said Finlayson.

The crew had been out only a couple of hours when they spotted the submarine and by the time they were ready to attack it was starting a crash dive.

Pritchard explained a submarine has only two alternatives when it comes under attack by Coastal Command craft—It can stay up and shoot it out or dive in a hurry.

"Sometimes," said Flt. Lt. Cameron Taylor, of Winnipeg, a pilot who used to be an engineer in peacetime, "they'll elect to stay on top."

"Usually," said Pritchard, "you see a submarine about the same time he sees you. That's what happened in this case. We could see this large black object on the surface of the water. As we got closer it got smaller so we knew then it was a submarine and that it was submerging.

CREW HAS TO WORK QUICKLY

"Immediately we got ready to attack. There is never more than a very few minutes after the sighting in which to attack if it is to be worthwhile at all, so the crew has to work smoothly and together.

"The pilot drops the depth charges himself and in this case we dropped them just ahead of where the swirl showed the conning tower had disappeared."

But a submarine attack doesn't mean the end of the night's work for a crew in Coastal Command patrol. Pritchard and his crew had been out only a couple of hours. They still had hours to go to cover the territory assigned to them.

"So," said Pritchard, "we just kept right on flying."

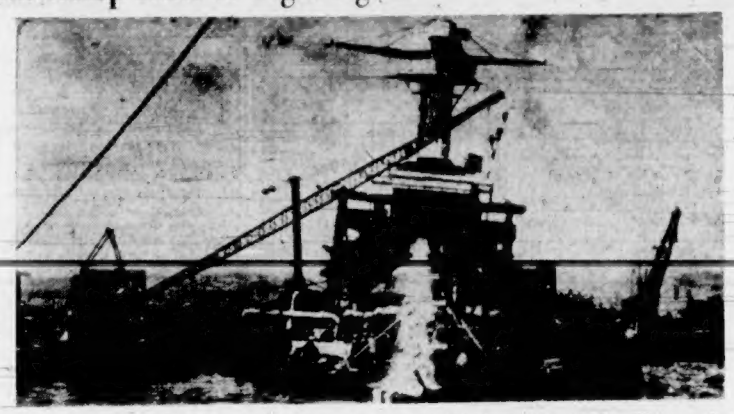
Battleship Rises to Fight Again



Japanese infamy at Pearl Harbor was followed by hard work and this is one of the results. There was hardly a United States warship afloat after the Japanese pulled their sneak raid on Pearl Harbor. Experts soon started raising the sunken craft and today most of them are in active service, in better shape than before. Here is a bow-on shot of the main deck of the battleship California as it broke water.

"Dina Cashman"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER XLII

"I never thought of asking her. She was a quiet, pale girl, nicely raised. She loved a chance to show off her French and German, quietly, you know, as if everyone who counted at all must of course have been educated in Europe. I think we both were dazed when we found ourselves actually married.

"Anna almost never spoke. We were married and living in the same house and that was that. I'd ask her at the table, 'How'd it go today?' 'Why, just as I expected it to,' she'd say, looking up surprised. Quietly surprised, of course. 'Did you go to hospital and see Jean?' 'Certainly.' That would be all.

"She was great on making calls and seeing old people and going to hospital board meetings. But she never had anything to say about them. Anna hated the old place, and we moved into town. She felt she had to have a child or two for the Holland and Jarjeon families I wanted kids, too, but she never had a healthy child. After about four years she became a chronic invalid. We went down to the old place for the Summers, moved back to the city. She had nurses around her always.

"When Anna died," he went on, "and Aline came back here. She was Mrs. Rosenstirn then, married to a fine fellow, musical, cultured, and of course thinking she was the most beautiful woman alive. And indeed she was. He had a place in Honolulu, another in Philadelphia—he was a big nerve specialist.

"Mental cruelty was what she accused him of. She had two children by Pollack; she got hold of them for a visit and went to Reno, and I went up there to see her. Beautiful apartment of course, beautiful children, nice nurse in charge, and everyone making a fuss about Aline. This was—let's see—last year."

"Only last year!"

"Yep. She told me she'd been a little fool all her life, that she had come to appreciate my old friendship and that it would be heaven to get down to the old place in Burlingame and have her children with her. She wanted to be a country lady, she said. She said, 'We'll ride horses and garden and have a few friends in and keep dogs—'

"'My old dream,' Rogers began after a moment's pause. 'The dream I'd dreamed since I was twenty years old.' I said to her that she needn't bury herself; we'd go to New York and perhaps to Europe; we'd take in symphony concerts and the opera in San Francisco. Everything was all straightened out. Her estate was pretty well wrecked; we saved what we could. Some debts she had run up I wiped out. It was all wonderful."

He stopped on a bitter note, and Dina, looking at him timidly saw that his face was dark.

"I hate—I hate to have you look that way," she said, her fingers on his arm.

He shook himself as if to shake off a tangible hurt.

"Well, as I tell you," he said in a milder tone, "I'm not feeling it as I did. Not always. Yesterday and today there've been breaks—rifts in the clouds I've been under for so many years. It's like coming out into the air after stifling, Geraldine. It's like finding water when you are dry—parched all the way down—mouth and eyes and stomach and throat."

"And the next thing you knew she married Mr. Havens?"

"Went down to visit my sister-in-law—dear Caroline!—at Palm Springs, wrote me from there that I must love her Andy, that she was packing off her two children to their father, and she and Andy were going to be married right away, and that she had known all along that she didn't feel about me the right way."

"But—but yesterday," Dina said bewildered, "you said she said something about this marriage being a mistake."

"She did. But in a way that didn't blame him and didn't blame her," Rogers said. "You see, she's changed, and it's partly you who are responsible. From the moment she saw you in my house last January she said she felt changed. She knew then—d'ye see?—that she'd been fooling herself all this time. She"—he laughed indulgently—"she's jealous of you, Geraldine. She said so. She said she couldn't bear to see you in my house, mistress there, and if you had a child to have it my child. And then she came close to me and said, 'Toppy'—that was her old name for me, you know—Toppy," she said, 'haven't we been the fools, you and I? All that I ever needed was—' Well," Rogers broke off with a gruff little laugh, "anyway, she said the things I've been waiting twenty years to have her say. But at the same time she couldn't say kind enough things for Andy. 'He's a darling boy,' she said, 'and I know that I'm not harming him. I'll never hurt him. But some day when he sees someone else—'

Naval Casualties

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP).—The Royal Canadian Navy, in its 176th casualty list of the war, tonight reported that two men have died in hospital, one of meningitis, in Algiers.

Following is the latest casualty list:

Died in hospital on May 26—Ordinary Seaman Louis Ross Rodgers, R.C.N.V.R., Hamilton.

Died at Mustapha General Hospital, Algiers, May 18, of meningitis—Leading Signalman Cecil Floyd Anderson, R.C.N.V.R., Port Colborne, Ont.

TOO MUCH NELSON

CARDIFF, Wales (CP). — Arthur Dodd, forty-seven-year-old merchant skipper, who adopted the Nelson blind-eye touch after a naval launch had ordered him to stop when he was sailing from a port, was fined $450. He was sailing without orders and refused to turn back.

German Admits Submarines Not Doing So Well

STOCKHOLM, May 31 (AP). — A German naval writer indirectly conceded today that the Allied defence against U-boats is reducing the sinking of merchant ships and is even easing Nazi pressure on the ocean sea lanes.

Capt. Rudolph Krohne, commander of a corvette, emphasizing how difficult U-boat warfare has become, wrote in the Voelkischer Beobachter, Nazi party organ:

"The tenacious exertions of the British and Americans to protect their convoys sufficiently with constantly new defensive weapons and with naval and air forces, and to discover the U-boats in time to force them off and destroy them, may indeed reduce sinkings for some time and achieve a certain easing in the Battle of the Atlantic."

Krohne added that "it must not be concealed that the battle is indescribably difficult and demands unimaginable determination in the face of the weather and the enemy's defence."

LONDON (CP).—Maj. H. C. Stamp went through two years of desert fighting, bombings and flights with paratroops. Always he had with him his kit, through 5,000 miles of traveling. Then he brought it to London. Five minutes after he arrived here, it was stolen.
